RELIGIOUS FREEDOM. ts of Methodist Ministers Mee

With Encouragement.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS INFORT.,
CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The Chicago
Methodist ministers who have undertaken to secure, through the Poper greater religious freedom for the Protestants in Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, have, in response to circular letters, received encouragement from Justin Moceived encouragement from Justin Mc-Carthy, Algernon Charles Swinburne and the historian, W. E. H. Lecky. The letters are as follows: NO. 73 EATON TERRACE,

Dear Sir: I have read your letter just received with great interest. I feel no doubt whatever that the influence of the Pope will be exercised in securing for Protestants in the South Amer-lean republics the same liberty of con-science that is enjoyed by Roman Cath-eight each. Fifteen other States show olic citizens of your country. I need hardly say that your purpose has my fullest and most cordial sympathy. Dear Sir: I am no less honored than gratified by your expressed wish for my opinion on so grave a question as that on which you ask for it, and can that on which you ask for it, and can only say that it seems more to me than somewhat wanton waste of time to apply directly or indirectly to the cardinal or Pope for any relaxation or modification of the most monstrous claims ever put forward by the church. Force and force alone could obtain even a show of justice, decency or fair play from the ministers and agents of a religion which has never yet yielded one jot of its atroclous pretensions except under sheer compulsion of absolute necessity. Yours most sincerely, ((Signed)

Dear Sir: I wish you all success in your efforts to obtain a repeal of the gross, intolerant laws about Protestant marriages which exist in some of the South American states, but I shall be much surprised if you obtain any real help from the Vatican. Such laws were once general in Roman Catholic countries. They were always inspired or suggested by the priests and they were only abolished when the political power of the church was restricted or overthrown. Yours faithfully

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Mrs. Langtry was interviewed today on the subject of the loss of her box of jewels from the Sloan-street. Bank, branch of the Union Bank of London, last week, by means of a forged order. She said that she had obtained no further light on the question as to the identity of the recipient of the box. Mrs. Langtry said that there was no suspicion against any of her servants, but that the scheme must have been worked up by somebody who was cognisant of her affairs, for never before was there so much of her jewelry at the bank. Her maid had suggested that she take it with her to Baden Baden, but she thought it safer to leave it in the custody of the bank.

snows an increase of 2569 over last year.

Some special cases to which the inspectors are giving much attention are the robberies of postoffices, burning of postoffices, wrecks of pestal cars and highway robberies of mall messengers, mail stages and railway postal cars, and the figures submitted in the report show that the depredations and casualties in these cases are gradually on the increase, although the increase is not so uniform as during the preceding year. A gratifying decrease in the number of postoffices burglarized is noted, but highway robberies of the mails have increased somewhat.

Under the head of foreign cases the report emphasizes the superiority of the registry system of the United States over that of most of the foreign countries. Demonstration.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—(Special patch.) It is reported that Presiden Faure of the French republic has decided to pay a visit to St. Petersburg in the spring and has arranged with Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is now spending his holidays in France, for a grand demonstration of the united French, Prussian and Danish fleets to take place at Copenhagen.

A Paris correspondent of the Lokal

EMPORIA (Kan.) Sept. 23. — The greatest change in the weather ever experienced here occurred within the past twenty-four hours, the mercury dropping from 90 deg. in the afternoon to the freezing-point at night. A heavy frost occurred last night. At Coffey-ville the mercury fell forty degrees in two hours. At Wichita the fall was fitty degrees, and the weather is the coldest for September ever recorded there. Material injury to crops will follow if the cold spell continues.

At Ardmore, I. T., a severe thunderstorm came up this afternoon, accompanied by a light rain and a very high wind. The storm was followed by a cold wave, a fall of forty degrees occurring in a few hours.

Thomas A. Lewis's Job in Question.

Comptroller Colgan Holds it is Not Legal.

Atty.-Gen. Fitzgerald Rules in Favor of the Los Angeles Man.

Appeal Taken by the Latter to the Superior Court of Sacramento County in Order to Enable Him to Get His Sainry.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26.—(Special Dispatch.) A State officer has appealed to the Superior Court of Sacramento county for assistance in trying to get a warrant from State Comptroller Colgan for his salary as expert to the Board of Examiners. The date for hearing set forth in the alternative writ of mandate served on Comptroller Colgan today is next Friday, and the Comptroller is told that he must either give Thomas A. Lewis of Los Angeles his warrant, or on that day show cause why he refuses to do so.

Colgan declares that Lewis will not et the warrant until the Supreme Court of the State says he is entitled to it, and is equally positive that the Supreme Court will say no such thing. As an outgrowth of the refusal to draw a warrant in favor of Lewis, bad feela warrant in favor of Lewis, bad feeling has been engendered between the Comptroller and Atty.-Gen. Fitzgerald, and a number of very sharp letters have been written on both sides. The correspondence has been going on for a month or two, and for the past week or two it has been the talk of the Capital or two it has been the talk of the Capitol.

When Colgan was asked for a warrant and refused to issue it, he wrote a letter to the Attorney-General in San Francisco, stating what he had done and giving his reasons. These were that the bill creating the office of expert to the State Board of Examiners failed of passage, and therefore there was no such office. The fact that the Legislature made an appropriation in anticlustion of the office. Concluding, he asked the opinion of the Attorney-General. In a few days he received an opinion, which was to the effect that the making of the appropriation showed an intent of the Legislature and that the appointment of Lewis by the Board of Examiners was altogether legal, and that that gentleman should be given a warrant for the salary.

But Colgan was not convinced, and salary.

But Colgan was not convinced, and stil persisted in refusing. His persistency called for another letter from Atty-Gen. Fitzgerald, the tone of which was not to the liking of Colgan, and the result was a reply in kind, in which the Comptroller stated that, as he was right in the stand he had taken, and as he did not want to illegally pay out the State's money, he thought he was entitled to counsel at the expense of the State in fighting the suit which Lewis was about to bring against him. Atty.-Gen. Fitzgerald did not like the suggestion and wrote a reply that has suggestion and wrote a reply that has created a coolness which will take a long time to patch up. It was Mr. Fitzgerald, who, sitting as a member of the Board of Examiners, appointed Mr. Lewis, and it is his opinion that the matter must go uncontested, or, if contested, the costs of the suit must be paid out of the pockets of the contestant. It virtually means that there is no appeal from the Board of Examiners, of which the Attorney-General is a member.

It is not at all likely that the State's attorney would serve the State in the case when the question at issue was one of his own actions, the legality of which was being tested. Colgan hopes to have an opinion on this as well as on the official standing of Lewis.

CUSTER'S CHECK.

Fifteen Hundred Dollars Has Beer Astray for Many Years.

REGILAR ASSOCIATED PIEUS REPORTA BISMARCK (N.D.,) Sept. 23. — The tragic death of Gen. Custer and his gallant men at the hands of the Sloux Indians in the massacre of the Sloux Indians in the massacre of the Little Eig Horn was recalled this week by the forwarding to Mrs. Custer of a check for $1500 drawn to the order of Gen. George A. Custer in 1876. The check is dated June 25, and is signed by B. L. Smith, at that time assistant paymaster in the army. It was on June 25, 1876, that the massacre took place. The check is still unpaid, and, solled and tattered though it be, constitutes a valid claim against the government for the amount represented upon lis face, which was, no doubt, intended as part payment of Gen.
Custer's salary as an officer of the United States Army.
Where the check has been all these years no one knows, least of all Michael Francis, who found it in the street here last February, and who has retained it in his possession until now. When Francis picked it up the bit of paper was almost as legible as when it was drawn, but three heavy creases in it showed that it had been worn through. The parts were joined together by narrow strips of paper pasted on the back, and the edges were somewhat solled, as though the paper had at one time been dropped in the mud.

No indorsement appears on the back of the check and the face shows the mark of no cancellation stamp, demonstrating that the check has never been presented for payment. The check was no doubt forwarded to the Northwest before the news of the Custer massacre reached Washington. Had, it reached those in charge of the dead soldier's effects, it would have been sent back at once in order that one payable to the heirs could have been sent on in its Dlace. It has evidently and swept out into the street, where it was found by Francis. BISMARCK (N.D..) Sept. 23.

FOREIGN JEWS.

estrictions Against Their Entrance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The Department of State today received, through Minister Breckinridge, a note from Prince Lobanow of the Russian Foreign Office, bearing upon the admission of foreign Jews into Russia, together with a translation of the Rus sion of foreign Jews into Russia, together with a translation of the Russian laws upon the subject. These laws are furnished in response to a request from Breckinridge, who made it because of the refusal of the Russian Consul at New York to advance the passports of American citizens of Jewish descent. In his note enclosing copies of the laws in question, Prince Lobanow refers to the restrictions against the entrance of Jews into Russian territory, and claims that they are far from implying an absolute interdiction.

They have their sources, he says, "in consideration of a kind essentially administrative and economic. The imperial government having already many millions of Jewish subjects, only admits their congeners of foreign allegiance when they seem to present a guarantee that they will not be a charge and a parasitic element in the state, but will be able, on the contrary, to be useful in the international development of the country. It is because he had this object in view to protect himself from an influence of a proletaria of this nature that the Russian legislator has established clearly the catagories of Israelites of whom the entrance in our territory can be permitted."

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The great na-tional convention of Irish societies will be opened in the Y. M. C. A. Hall at 10 be opened in the Y. M. C. A. Hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with a large representation of Irishmen from all parts of the country. Today delegates were arriving upon nearly every train. The headquarters at McCoy's Hotel presented an animated appearance, conferences and the welcoming of new arrivals being the order of the day. John T. Keating, State secretary for the Ancient Order of Hiberians, and secretary of the local Reception Committee, estimates that there will be fully 1500 delegates in attendance when the convengates in attendance when the convention opens.

The convention will last three days. One general object is the formation of a united open organization for the furtherance of the Irish cause. Those who issued the call for the convention claim it is not contemplated that physical force shall be used or advised in the attainment of the independence of the Irish people as a nation unless such means be deemed absolutely necessary, and the object in view be probable of attainment. It is believed that the convention will serve to revive interest and attainment. It is believed that the convention will serve to revive interest and infuse new life into the Irish cause both in America and Great Britain.

Among the many distinguished delegates already here is O'Neil Ryan of St. Louis. Ryan, who was one of the signers of the official call for the convention, is ex-vice-president of the Irish National League. Asked to indicate the general and special purposes of the convention today, Ryan said:

"It is a convention called by leading men of the Irish race who have ceased

"It is a convention called by leading men of the Irish race who have ceased to have confidence in the efforts of the British Parliament to obtain for us our rights. We wish to make known our desires and our demands through the instrumentality of this convention; then we shall await the outcome. We wish to arouse the Irish movement from the lethargy into which it has been allowed to fall these past four or five years. The general principle which we advocate, and for which I believe the convention will declare, is for the complete independence of the Irish people. There has been considerable talk of the convention declaring in favor of physical force in obtaining our ends. Now I do not believe, nor do I think the prime movers in the calling of this I do not believe, nor do I think the prime movers in the calling of this convention believe, that such a course would be advisable at this time. It would be foolishness for the Irish people to enter into a rebellion which promises at the outset to end in our people being imprisoned and killed. But I do believe that the men most active in this cause are in favor of force should it be necessary and likely to bring about the desired results."

Considerable comment is being aroused by the fact that among the active in this cause are in favor of force should it be necessary and likely to bring about the desired results."

Considerable comment is being aroused by the fact that among the fifty delegates from New York city who have arrived are Jeremiah O'Donovan Rossa and P. J. P. Tynan. Tynan became celebrated in 1832 as the "number one," having in charge the "removal" of government officials in Ireland. He it was who was accused of having conducted the killing of Chief Secretary Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke in Phoenix Park, Dublin. So carefully was the name of this man kepf from his fellow-conspirators that even James Carey, a leading member of the Invincibles, knew him only as "Number One." Carey, however, when he became an informer, made it necessary for Tynan to come to this country. During the years following the killing, Tynan was a member of the Middlesex Volunteers, a crack London corre, and was one of the men picked to escort the Queen to the onening of the new Royal Courts on the Strand.

Rossa is well known for his dynamite campaigns. He was, it is claimed by friends among the delegates, most inhumanly treated while in an English prison on a thirty years sentence for his connection with the Feniam movement, being obliged to lap up his food while his hands were tied behind his back. He lately visited England, the term of his sentence having expired. Rossa and Tynan are staying at McCoy's Hotel, the official headquarters. A sensation has been created by the announcement that among other things the convention will consider the case of the Irish political prisoners still held in penal servitude in England. Lord Salisbury, it is stated on high authority, will probably be sent a formal demand for their release within a certain period, which, if not compiled with, will be followed by the carrying out strictiv of the old law, an eve for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. For every prisoner not released, the "removal" is promised of a British Cabinet officer or other prominent English government official.

THE GREAT UNWASHED. SYRACUSE (N. Every train since noon has brought in its quota of delegates, from the Empire State express that landed David B. Hill, Comptroller Campbell, Clerk Defrees and Chairman J. W. Tonight precedents have been thrown to the winds, and the slate that this morning was in fairly good condition, is almost lost sight of behind the swarm of new candidates. The only offices that seem to be out of dispute are those of Secretary of State and Attorney-General. The comptrollership seems to be the main bone of contention, and since 3 o'clock there have developed five new candidates. The leaders smiled at the Donnybrook among the candidates, and refused to make selections. The probability, therefore, is that the slate will not be selected before tomorrow night, and even then several candidates will be left over.

The first proposition submitted tonight, and which will be introduced tomorrow in the convention, will be this plank:

"The Democratic party of New York stands unalterably opposed to the so-called ship-canal through and between the great inland lakes and tide-water of the Hudson River, as well as against Federal aid toward improving our canals or national interference with the canal system owned and operated by the State."

The remainder of the platform, exclusive of the excise question, is as follows, in an abbreviated form:
Declaring that the return to prosperity in the country is due to the proper administration of national affairs by Democrats and protecting against tariff-tinkering; declaring against the re-enactment of any law similar to the Sherman silver law; commending the administration of President Cleveland; pointing out the immense expense incurred by the so-called investigation committees and the sadding of probable additional expenses each year; criticizing the partisan legislation in dulged in and the failure to work the reforms promised; arraigning the administration of Gov. REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT. NEW YORK, Sept. 23 .- News of a battle, in which the Spanish were de-feated by the Cubans and lost 300 men, It came in a letter written September 14 at Peralego, when Campos was defeated. In a later engagement Roviara was captured by the Spanish, courtmartialed and sentenced to receive 400 lashes and to be shot, The sentence was carried out while Roviara was shouting for Cuban liberty. The Spanards were greatly incensed against him. He had killed three of their men before being captured. The letter says that all San Diego, where the execution took place, was incensed against the

This battle lasted from 5 o'clock a.m. to 9 p.m. with an intermission of two hours. The Spanish did nothing to any advantage, however, and, after burning their provisions, they continued to retreat to the mountains which place they entered in scattered groups.

In the engagement the Cubans' loss was forty men wounded and killed. The Spaniards lost over three hundred men, forty horses and a large store of provisions and munitions of war.

Col. Pegeda, at the head of 1000 Spaniards, well-provisioned, left San Diego for Combre on September 14. Spaniards are deserting every day and joining the Cubans. The Spaniards after the battle sent a cable to Spain headed: "The defeat and capture of Jose Maceo," and asked for the reward, sending the names of the advance officers in the engagement.

The mission of Secretary Quesada in Mexico, which has been kept from the public, was to arrange the details in connection with this plan. They are now practically completed. The recent capture of the Port of Banes on the northern coast of the Island of Cuba was the initial step in the plan.

In the harbor of Antwerp there is at present a vessel waiting to sail for the Island of Cuba. She is partially armored, and has on board 2700 Peabody rifies with bayonets, 5000 Mauser rifies, and 1,000,000 cartridges. These are all of 42 caliber, the same as are used by the Spanish troops. These rifies are to be used as the Cubans capture large quantities of ammunition from the Spaniards. The vessel is officered by men who have served for years in navies of European countries.

EFFORTS FOR RECOGNITION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Arrangements have been perfected here and in other large offites to get up a monster petition that the United States recognize the insurgens in Cuba as belligerents. The Cuban junta have the matter in hand, and every honorable influence is to be used to get the United States to acknowledge the republican government in Cuba. Part of the plan to call the attention of the American people to the work being done by the Cubans to free the island will be the issuing of 5000 petitions in blank for the signatures of those who are in favor of granting to the insurgents the recognition of belligerents. It is expected that there will be at least 15,000,000 signatures to this petition, representing all classes. EFFORTS FOR RECOGNITION.

"It was in the battle of Peralejo. By my side ten men fell, four wounded, six dead. As the firing was quite heavy, I took three corpses and, piling them one upon the other, formed a protective barricade. I kept my position here until the battle had been won by us and the enemy had fied. With three other soldiers I then went to the enemy's camp. The number of dead and counded was large. Stretched on the ground was a negro who must have been a leader, as he had a machief with a silver handle. I took his weapon from him, and in a few minutes we came across a group of wounded Cubans, among whom was the leader, Amador Guyrra, trying to load a revolver.

Jumping over several corpses, I was Guerra before he had time to piace bullets in his weapon, and with a gle stroke of my machete-I cut his ad off. I offered the machete to the utenant-colonel of my regiment, who did not take it to Governor-Genal Martines Campos. The latter said might keep it as a memento of my poleit."

Game Contest in Which the English Boat Did Not Meet Requirements

Horseman Knebes is Expelled-Th Baltimore Club Expects to Win the Pennant-The New Yachting Challenge.

(RPGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
OYSTER BAY (N. Y.,) Sept. 23.—The first race of the match, best three out of five, between the Ethel Wynn of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club and the Spruce IV of the Minilwa Yacht Club was sailed today after Saturday's fluke. The Ethel Wynn won very easily. She beat the Spruce IV by 7m. 41s. over a course that began with a run to leeward for three miles and inoluded a beat back on the second leg and a repetition of eight lengths to make the full distance of twelve miles. After the race, J. Arthur Brand said to a reporter of the Associated Press that he had changed his mind in one way if not in others. He had believed that the Spruce IV was more clever in a breeze that blew, but he discovered today that the stronger the wind the better was the Ethel Wynn. Brand had no complaint against steam-yachts, excursion boats, schooners or sloops that were following the racers, except in one instance, when Colegate Hoyte's steam launch got in his way just before the start, interferring with his crossing the starting line. "But," said he, "don't think for a moment that I make the claim that the incident would affect the result. I was beaten and well beaten."

The yachts were sent away over a course three miles to leeward, before the south wind, with a prospective beat back and a repetition of the same course, making a total of twelve miles. The prelimmary whistle was blown at 12:30 o'clock. A preparatory signal was given at 12:40 o'clock and after the yachts had five minutes to make a start. It was a one-gun English start, where the contestants had to figure on the time that, the gun would be fired and get over the line as soon after the signal time as possible. This kind of a game always gives skippers a chance to jocky about the line and to outmaneuver the other if they are smart enough. Ethel Wynn got over the line and was away on her business without waiting for her challenger. The Spruce IV was not lazy, and she came up on the weather side of the American boat before an eighth of a mile had been covered and blanketed the Yankee. More that the English boat was ahead of the American.

On crossing the line, the running before the wind with at their survey. way if not in others. He had believed that the Spruce IV was more clever in that the English boat was the only time that the English boat was ahead of the American.

On crossing the line, the running before the wind, both set their spinnakers. The breeze at that time was blowing about four knots an nour, and the racers sped before it. Going down to the outer mark on the first round the Ethel Wynn overhauled the Spruce IV and made her turn at 1:39:40 o'clock, or 17 seconds shead of her antagonist. Coming up into the wind the boats stood away over to the Long Island shore under that point that is known as Lloyd's Neck. On the first tack over toward Lloyd's Neck, the Spruce IV gained, but when the wind began to haul, as it did to the southwest, the Ethel Wynn was enabled to ease the sheats. The American boat ran away from the Britisher before the former passed out into the open waters of Long Island Sound. The boats turned the home buoy as follows:

The Ethel Wynn, 3:02:02 o'clock, Spruce IV, 3:09:15 o'clock. On the second run out to the mark, the Ethel Wynn was first, turning at 3:26:38 o'clock, while the Spruce IV did not get through until 3:42:03 o'clock. After going around the outer mark the second time, the contestants again stood toward the Long Island shore, near Lloyd's Neck, and there was a good deal of reaching in getting home, the wind having hauled well to the southward.

The Ethel Wynn passed the line first ward.

The Ethel Wynn passed the line first at 4:47:15 o'clock. She was greeted with the shrieking and tooting of the assembled fleet of observers. But the good game Spruce IV, which came along at 4:54:56 o'clock, or 7m. 41s. behind, received as royal a welcome as did the winner.

EX-COMMODORE SMITH TALKS. NEW YORK, Sept. 23.-When a ren resentative of the Associated Press showed the cable message regarding the new yachting challenger to ex-Commodore James D. Smith, chairman of the America's Cup Committee, the veteran yachtsman read the news eagerly and said:

"This, indeed, is a very sportsmanlike challenge, and I am very glad to hear of it. Of course our committee has nothing to do with it, but when the direct challenge arrives I have no doubt that a special meeting of the New York Yacht Club will be called, and a new committee appointed. In his preliminary cable Mr. Rose said that he begged to challenge for the America's cup next year, the race to be sailed on conditions satisfactory to the committee. The cablegram you have just shown me from Mr. Rose bears out his previous cablegram, and leaves conditions completely in the hands of any cup committee that may be appointed. Whether I shall be a member of that committee or not, I can now say positively that the fairest conditions will be adopted. This is good news, indeed, for American yachtsmen, and in my opinion it will not be necessary for us to build another cup-defender in order to beat the Distant Shore."

at Morris Park. When the magnificent course was first conceived it was designed that it should be more than a mere racetrack. The property has fallen into the hands of gentlemen who are in a position socially and otherwise to make a reality out of what was only a dream.

While the Turf Club in organization is a thing apart from the Westchester Racing Association, which latter will have the exclusive conduct of the racing proper under its especial supervision, there is a unity of purpose that makes them identical in their aim. With the Westchester Racing Association came the idea of the Turf Club. In consequence of a call by the Jockey Club, an inaugural meeting was had in Newport on August 8, last, at which the club was formed and a committee appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws and to issue invitations to gentlemen to become members of the Turf Club. Perry Belmont was chosen chairman of this Committee on Organisation and the success met with was very flattering. The following gentlemen have agreed to serve as governors: F. R. Appleton, J. J. Astor, J. H. Beekman, Perry Belmont, Fred Bronson, Royal Phelps Carroll, J. E. Cowdin, S. V. R. Cruger, Henry W. Deforest, Robert Goelet, T. A. Havemyer, C. G. Haven, C. Hitchcock, A. Iselin, Jr., Ogden Mills, E. D. Morgan, J. P. Morgan, E. C. Potter, W. H. Sands and William C. Whitney,

The Turf Club proposes to combine the attractions and uses of a country club with the privileges of all race meetings which will be held at the course. The club will lease from the Westchester Racing Association the clubhouse and stabiling with as much of the grounds as are necessary to provide for polo, golf, lawn tennis and such other athletic sports as may be carried on without interfering with the racing.

Manager Haplon is Confident That the Orioles Will Win. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23. — Manager Hanlon of the Baltimore Baseball Club said today that he was confident that his team would win the National League pennant. He expects to capture three games from the Phillies, and to lose not more than two, if any, to New York. He does not believe that the Western clubs are throwing games to Cleveland, but thinks that Pittsburgh might have used some other pitcher on Saturday besides Moran, who had pitched on the Thursday before.

Manager Irwin said: "I do not think the Western clubs are purposely losing games to Cleveland. All the Western clubs except the Clevelands showed up weak on their last Eastern trip, and now that the clubs have returned home they are not any stronger. Cleveland is the best club and we must win from them. I think it probable that the Louisvilles will take a game from the Clevelands. Baseball is an honest sport, and I am sorry to hear that many persons think the Western clubs are helping Cleveland with the pennant. The game is played on its merits at all times."

He Would Do Anything to Prevent

Corbett Being Defeated.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PHESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A local paper says that Manager William A. Brady has just made a very frank statement of the puglilistic situation. He said:

"There is not a thing in the world I would hesitate to do to keep Jim from getting defeated. I would stop at nothing, refuse to accept any referee, start a riot or anything, no matter how desperate, rather than let Corbett go down You can bet your life that if he is not in condition he will not enter the ring."

Added to this Fitzsimmons's positive statement made just before the Australian boarded his special car en route for Texas, that he would not fight Corbett unless either paid $20,000 or assured that the eidoloscope company would not be allowed to photograph the contest, makes the situation exceedingly dublous.

Officially Timed.

CAPE MAY (N. J.,) Sept. 23.—Theodore N. Ely, chief of the motive power of the Pennsylvania railroad system, was asked the facts in the controversy between American and British railways over speed records.

"First of all the world's record for a long-distance run," said Ely, "is held by the London and Northwestern Railway and is by the official figures just received, 64.8 miles an hour for 540 miles. Second, the longest run ever made without a stop was 4394 miles in 16h. 5m. This was the Jarrett and Palmer train from Jersey City to San Francisco. Third, the speed record in the United States for a long-distance train seems to be held by the New York Central with a 4884-mile run at the rate, according to newspaper reports, of 64.6 miles an hour, although the Railroad Gazette of September 20 gives the figures as 64.22. I, of course, have not the official data for that particular record. Fourth, the fastest record for 58 3-10 miles is held by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, 784 miles an hour. Fifth, the fastest record for 51-10 miles is at the rate of 102 miles an hour made by a regular train on the Pennsylvania road."

His Wheel Saved His Me...

(Harper's Round Table:) The bloycle has proved useful as a life-saving machine in many instances, but it remained for John O'Hara of Broome street, New York; to discover how good a bloycle is.as a means of escape from a mad dog. John is a well-known hid, and is so fond of blcycle-riding that he goes on wheeling trips through the streets of the East Side. All of these streets are crowded, but probably no one of them is so ismmed full of pedestrians and push-carts and peddiers wagons as Forsyth street. Experts say that no other part of the world is so thickly populated as this neighborhood, so you can easily imagine how difficult it must be to go wheeling a bloycle through it.

John O'Hara was enjoying a pleasant spin on the smooth asphalt pavement of Forsyth street, near Broome, at noon the other day, when he noticed the crowd scattering right and left, and diving into open hallways and down cellar stairs. Presently he heard a cry of "mad dog!" He wheeled sround and turned to fice to the southward. As he hurried away he looked back over his shoulder, and saw a big white dog galloying after him, its red tongue lolling His Wheel Saved His Life.

turned to fiee to the southward. As he hurried away he looked back over his shoulder, and saw a big white dog galloping after him, its red tongue loiling out, and yellow foam dripping from its open jaws. As the dog ran it turned and snapped viciously right and left. The cries of the crowds on the sidewalk warned everybody on the pavement, so that there was a clear reld ahead of O'Hara for saveral blocks. He pushed hard on the pedals, and sprinted away as hard as he could. If he could only be sure of plenty of headway he knew he would be safe. The dog was not running very fast, for his gait was uncertain, and he wavered from side to side.

If O'Hara had turned out into any of the side streets he would have been safe, but in the excitement of the moment he did not think of this. His one idea was to run ahead as fast as possible. Now and there the carts and wagons in the street were slow in turning out, and O'Hara had to slow up. In this way he ran five blocks, now gaining on the dog, and now almost overtaken. At Canal street there was such a jam of vehicles that the bloyde rider almost had to stop. The dog galloped ahead of him, snapping at the wheel as it went past. O'Hara might have even then turned northward for safety, but he was too excited, as probably most of us would have been in his place. He kept straight ahead, and as the dog fell in front of him, the wheels of the bloycle passed over its neck and stunned it. Away went O'Hara at full speed, and a policeman, fortunately near at hand, shot and-killed the dog before it could recover. Probably this is the first time that a bloycle was ever used as a weapon as well as a means of flight from danger.

MRS. M'LEAN DIVORCED.

REGULAN ASSOLATED PRESS REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Mrs.
Carrie McLean will not be annoyed by her husband's jealousy and his steuths any more. Judge Hebbard divorced her from her husband, Anthony McLean, today, giving her half of the community property, but reserving the question of who shall have the oustody of the children until the decree is signed. All the money spent by the husband in trying to prove that his wife's friendship for Preacher Watts was not what it should be was a useless expenditure, for Judge Hebbard apparently threw out all the vigilant sleuths' testimony as to the osculation on Bernal Heights, in Jefferson Park and elsewhere. He agreed, however, that McLean had been treated cruelly by his wife, and he granted the divorce to the husband on the ground of extreme cruelty.

The attorneys for Mrs. McLean tried to have a new answer and cross-complaint to the original complaint admitted, in which Mrs. McLean specifically denied every one of her husband's allegations as to her intimacy with Rev. Watts, and charged Anthony with insane jealousy and fercotity constituting extreme cruelty. This would have reopened the entire case, but the Judge declined to consider the new documents and denied the request for their admission. She Was Cruel to Her Husband-Kissing a Preacher.

An Ex-Supervisor's Son Dangeronsly

AN EX-Superviser's Son Dangerously Wounded in a Quarrel.

(ENGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
LODI, Sept. 22.—Arthur Ennis, son of ex-Supervisor Ennis, was stabbed tonight in a quarrel with a man mamed Bill Loomis, and may die. Ennis was the aggressor and received the stab in his breast while he was striking Loomis, but is not certain whether the knife was used by Loomis or his son Boyd, a young man 19 years old.

The trouble was started by Ennis hast Saturday evening when he went to the shop where Loomis works and insuited him. Others interfered and the quarrel ended. This evening the men met on the street and both were under the influence of liquor. Ennis attacked Loomis and Boyd Loomis went to the assistance of his father. He was seen to strike Ennis during the knocking about of the men. Ennis was stabbed in the right breast, the knife penetrating the lung and making a very dangerous wound. He is a single man, aged 24 years, and was recently slightly, but while working on a bridge near New Hope, when a pile-driver on which he was employed fell with him. Loomis is a drinking man and the father of a larre family, having a wife and nine children. When he was arrested he said he had no knife. On learning that Loomis's son had taken a hand in the affair, he was afterward arrested. Sympathy seems to be with Loomis here.

KNIGHT'S FERRY, Sept. 23.—Fire yesterday burned the business part of town. Although the town has a g sod water supply there is no apparatus, and the fire was fought only with buckets and small hose. The buildings destroyed were the Riverside Hotel, Kasper Vogt's saloon, Robert Beckwith's butcher shop and stable, the Dolling saloon, the McCabe store, the dwellings of J. Slook and J. Masclacher and the old courthouse, which was completely gutted. The origin of the fire is unknown. Preparations are being made to rebuild. The loss is $14,000; half insured.

Prise-packages Barred.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Mate Smith of the American ship, Sewell. Iying at Union-street wharf, objects to fakirs selling 35 bills to his able seamen for 56 cents each. In endeavoring to eject a prize-package man from the ship the fellow resisted and a fight followed, in which one shot was fired by the mate. The bullet did not hit anything, but the faker left so rapidly that he forgot his valles, which is supposed to be full of $5 bills in envelopes. At last accounts the gentleman had not returned for his goods.

Sentenced to the Pen. FRESNO, Sept. 23.—Five prisoners were today sentenced to the penitentiary from this county, four of them being newcomers who arrived with the gathering of the grape-pickers. John Healey, got two years for robbery; George Myers, one year for assault with a deadly weapon; William Campbell, three years, and John Dosh, one year for burglary, and John Coffee, twenty years for criminal assault upon his daughter. This was the largest number of prisoners ever sentenced to State's prison from this county in one day.

TESTING HIS MEMORY

PAWNBROKER OPPENHEIM ON THE RACK.

The Defense Lays All Sorts of Traps for Him in Order to Im-peach Him.

W. J. Phillips of San Rafael Also Injects Some Interest into

The Santa Crus Fires-Mayor Sutre Vetoes a Tax Levy-San Francisco and the British-The Bawamore Inquiry.

(REGILAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—More women than men sit and listen while Durrant is tried. Every phase and insident of the drama is keenly watched by them. When Mrs. Durrant comes in kiss on her son's lips the women on there is an involuntarily indrawn "ah" all along the line and then the wave of hats and bonnets and feathers and flowers, the fauna and flora of mil-iners' shops, subsides into the pool.

This morning Durrant was handed an invitation to a social which is to take place tomorrow evening. The invitation was passed around, but he was obliged to send his regrets—a previous engage Adolph Oppenheim sat in front. Oppenheim was breathing hard. He knew what was before him in the way of cross-examination, and he was harden ing his heart for the test. The defense laid all sorts of traps for Oppenheim and whether they succeeded in netting him in any of them will not be made clear until they bring in such syldence as they may have to impeach his testi-mony. There is no doubt that such is their purpose, for they laid the founda-tion today.

The most dramatic witness of the day was W. J. Phillips, now of San Rafael. Phillips may be described as a British blonde, and he kept a hotel for eight years in Victoria. Phillips has an important walk and an impressive manner. He stepped off the stand, walked quickly to the front, pushed out an aggressive finger, almost threatening, and said: "That's the man." No hesitation about his testimony. He said that he would know Durrant if they had-shaved off his head instead of giving his hair the intermediate pompadour of the County Jail, a sort of midway coffure between the City Prison and San Quentin. The most dramatic witness of the day

Oppenheim was the first witness of the morning, and he was taken in hand by Dickinson for cross-examination. From the severity and searching nature of the inculstice. by Dickinson for cross-examination. From the severity and searching nature of the inquisition, it is evident that the defense regards his testimony as important. They have had detectives working up his record, and have sent people to him with articles for sale in order to test his memory. They showed him a silver corkscrew, a watch-charm, a gold chain and a couple of watches, and asked him to say if he had seen them before. He had seen them They had been offered him for sale in his store. Then they asked him to describe the clothes and appearance of the men who offered the articles. Openheim was able to do this in some detree. It is altogether possible that among, the articles shown were some that were never offered him for sale. That sort of thing is called "testing the memory of the witness."

Of course, Oppenheim's memory for clothes and outward characteristics of casual visitors to his store is a most important element in the value of his testimony, as his description of the man he believes to have been Durrant is specific and mirute in detail. Further, they asked him questions regarding some transactions in which he was mixed up cific and minute in detail. Further, they asked him questions regarding some transactions in which he was mixed up with the police. The bearing of the questions was not made clear at the time, but they were obviously put to lay a foundation for future testimony in the way of impeachment.

The man who goes on the stand in the Durrant case takes his reputation in his hand.

THE PROCEEDINGS. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The tenth week of the trial of Theodore Durrant commenced today. The prose-cution now has its case substantially before the jury. Its main witnesses have been heard and all that the District Attorney will now do is to sub-stantiate the evidence already given with corroborative testimony. Adolph Oppenheim, the broker who stated that Durrant had, about the middle of last Oppenheim, the broker who stated that Durrant had, about the middle of last April, tried to pawn a ring with a chipped diamond, identified by Oppenheim as one belonging to Blanche Lamont, was recalled for further crossexamination. The witness was questioned at length by the defense regarding Durrant's visit to his shop, in order to ascertain the possibility of a mistake in identification. To test his memory he was questioned concerning other persons who had visited his pawnshop on the day Durrant is charged with having tried to sell the ring.

Oppenheim said only two other persons had called. Both were strangers, yet he described them minutely and recounted the particulars of their visits as if they had occurred yesterday. Oppenheim was asked regarding other spi inc days, answering promptly.

In the minds of some of the spectators in the courtroom he was too good a witness, remembering events on special days months back with extraordinary vividness. Counsel for the defense tried to confuse Oppenheim by showing him a number of silver articles and inquiring if he had ever seen them before. In many cases the pawnbroker replied in the affirmative and described the persons who had tried to sell or pawn them. The defense evidently considered Oppenheim's testimony of great importance, and tried hard to break it down, but without marked success.

sell or pawn them. The defense evidently considered Oppenhelm's testimony of great importance, and tried hard to break it down, but without marked success.

W. J. Phillips, a clgar-manufacturer, a middle-aged man of good appearance and address, testified in a positive manner that he had seen Durrant coming out of Oppenhelm's store in the early part of last April. He had no doubt of the identity of Durrant. He was attracted to the man by his peculiar appearance, manner, his actions and the fact that he was coming out of a pawnshop. A sensational scene followed when the District Attorney requested the witness to step down and indicate the man he. saw coming out of the pawnshop. Phillips rose, walked from the stand to within three feet of the prisoner and with pointed finger and steady gaze said in positive tones: "That is the young man." Durrant did not finch under the orden! He returned gaze with gaze and not a muscle of his impassive face twitched. He neither betrayed guilt nor flashed back the glence of injured innocence.

The witness was cross-examined regarding his business enterprises and his family history, with the apparent intention of discrediting his testimony. He said that when Durrant's portrait was first published he remarked that he had seen him some place. When Oppenhelm's picture was published, the scene at the pawnshop flashed across his mind, and all the details came back to him. Phillips said he came into the courtroom a week ago to see if he could identify Durrant, which he did without a moment's hesitation.

The witness said he did not know Oppenhelm and had never bowed to him although he had frequently seen the pawnbroker standing in the door of his shop as the witness went to his office. He had avoided speaking to Oppenhelm since Durrant's arrest, as he wished to prevent any suspicion of collusion, between them. Phillips said he had nothing to say to Durrant as the latter left the shop, nor did the prisoner speak, but Durrant made a peculiar motion with his lips which he had never seen a man make before. The witness had noticed Durrant make the same lip movement when he came to court a week ago to look at him.

Leigh H. Irvine, a newspaper man, said he interviewed Durrant on the evening of April 14 in the City Prison. Durrant's statement was made in the presence of Judge Thompson, who was then Durrant's attorney. It was as to his whereabouts on April 3. Durrant then said he left home about 3 o'clock on that morning and met Blanche Lamont at Twenty-first and Mission. She invited him to accompany her to the college on the day the conversation about the "Newcomes" took place. He went to the church at 4:30 o'clock and took off his hat and coat and went up stairs to fix the gas. He stated that he met King in the church and left it with King. He said nothing about seeing Miss Lamont in the afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Perry of Alameda, who was visiting Mrs. Crosett on April 3, corroborated Mrs. Crosett as to her trip to the Mission on that afternoon. Mrs. Crosett left the Haight-street car at Market to go out Valencia.

The prosecution has not as yet attempted to prove by the students at the Cooper Medical College, Durrant's classmates, that the accused did not attend Or. Chency's lecture on the afternoon that Blanche Lamont was strangled to death. It is understood that a number of the case with apparently special concern, and has taken the pains in person to look up some evidence which might tend to offset any statements t and which he hoped would cause the students to believe that they really had seen him there.

Two of the students he summoned could not be persuaded to admit that they saw him during the lecture, but the third, who was F. W. Rose, was inclined to think that Durrant was right about it. At the accused's solicitation Rose looked over his notebooks and concluded finally that he had seen Durrant in the lecture-room between 1 and 2 o'clock. He will now be summoned, it is said, as a witness for the defense to assist in proving an alibl.

There are breakers ahead for Rose, however. If he testifies as he says he intends to he will be confronted with the daily rollcall, which shows that Durrant was marked absent from the particular lecture which Rose says he attended. According to Rose's statement as made to the accused's attorneys, Durrant put in an appearance at 1 o'clock, and listened to the first lecture delivered that afternoon. He is not positive whether or not his classmate remained there throughout the lecture, but does say that he did not see him leave the room. As Rose's seat in the classroom is quite close to the door he says he does not think that Durrant could have stepped out without being seen by him.

"I have found, from looking over my notes." said Rose, when seen with ref.

he says he does not think that Durrant could have stepped out without being seen by him.

"I have found, from looking over my notes," said Rose, when seen with reference to his proposed testimony, "that the first lecture that afternoon was about skin diseases. It lasted from 1 until 2 o'clock. I cannot swear positively that Durrant-remained there until 2 o'clock, but I do not hesitate to say that I did not see him go out, and therefore am inclined to believe that he heard the entire lecture. Regarding the succeeding lecture I know nothing, so far as concerns Durrant's attendance. Durrant had to call my attention to a number of things regarding the lecture before I recollected that I had seen him there. He has a wonderful memory himself. He is simply a marvel in that regard. I had to resort to my notes in order to refresh my memory, and even then I was not exactly positive as to the date. I don't know whether or not any of the other students are to be summoned. I have understood however, that nearly all, if not all of the class, would be called for the prosecution."

Student Rose's name has been associated with another story in connection with the Durrant case, a story regarding which he may be asked some questions by the prosecution when he goes upon the witness-stand. Rose is, said ing which he may be asked some questions by the prosecution when he goes upon the witness-stand. Rose is, said to have repeated to George Bewell and another acquaintance a remark which Durrant is alleged to have made to him at the college on the morning of April 3. That remark was to the effect that he had an engagement with a young lady for that afternoon. It was further coupled with a lewd suggestion. Rose claims now that he does not remember exactly what Durrant said, and he is not quite sure it was intended seriously.

spread of flames which have done much damage to the forest in the last few days. The territory which is now one mass of flames reaches from Rincon to Laguna-Creek, and is about twelve miles in extent. There is no possibility of extinguishing the flames, which are allowed to run 'rlot, consuming thousands of cords of wood and leaving charred trees and blackened stumps to mark its pathway.

The fire is now under control in this vicinity so that its further spread is checked unless the wind should spring up. This morning hardly any breeze is blowing, or just enough to gently fan the flames. The fire is now above the railway track, reaching toward the west and getting further and further away. Trains are able to get through on time, but the county road is yet impassable. Many campers who were in the forest were driven out yesterday, leaving tents and equipage behind, not having time to carry them. The flames are reaching toward them with unchecked violence. In addition to the wood and timber destroyed, considerable food was consumed. The country is now as dry as tinder, so that there is no resistance to the fire. From this city the flames can be seen in the Monterey Mountains.

SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 23.—The forest fires this afternoon crept nearly to the city reservoir. At this point a hard fight was made. After a desperate struggle on the part of a big force of men the approach of the flames was stayed. Then the fire took another course to the west, reaching the bridge that separates Wilder's dairy from the burning territory. If it had crossed the dividing line nothing could have saved the destruction with the country of the flames this afternoon only tended to fan the fire into increased ferocity. Hundreds of men are guarding every point at which there is any danger of the flames spreading. There is no can-ger of the fire spreading to the powder works, and even if it does there would not be an explosion of the 150 tons of powder at the mills, for the men have standing orders to wet down the powder in case of any sign of fire approaching. Already, the fire territory covers 3000 agres. H. Cowell's loss, is roughly estimated at $30,000, and the destruction still holds sway on his lands. Word has been received that a big fire has broken out in Shingle Guich, close to Felton. The railroad company has a force of men staying the advance of the flames. This evening the atmosphere is unusually warm in the city, caused by the heat from the forest fires. From behind the hills the flames can be seen leaping up. Many of those who have lost are poor people who have been cutting wood all summer.

AN IMPORTANT POST.

San Francisco Will Hereafter Have a Consul-General.
(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The rank of the British government's repesentative has been changed Her ish interests will hold the title of Consul-General. Of late the business of the San Francisco office has in creased so rapidly that it was deemed necessary to elevate the rank of the officer in charge.

J. W. Warburton, who has been appointed chief of the office at this port, will be the first British consul-general at San Francisco. He was assigned to this port about six months ago but he has as yet not arrived here. He is expected, however, to take charge of his office on the 1st of November. The office is at present in charge of Vice-Consul Moore, who is acting as consul-general.

noe is at present in carriage as consul-general.

The change in the rank makes a change in the entire British consulate service on the Coast. The office at Portland, Or., which heretofore has been in the hands of a vice-consul, is now made a consulate, ranking next to the local office. The office at present is in charge of Vice-Consul Laidlaw, but he will probably be raised to the rank of consul.

When that office is put in charge of a consul, this consular district is to be greatly changed. The office here will then cover only California, Nevada, Utah and Oregon, as Arizona, Washington and Idaho will be assigned to the Portland district. This will leave only two vice-consuls—those at San Diego and Los Angeles.

SAN JOAQUIN BONDS.

The Supreme Court Declares the County Issue Valid.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS BEPORT.) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23. -The Su preme Court decided today that the San Joaquin county bond issue was valid. C. F. Howland sued the Supervisors of the county to have the bonds declared invalid. The bonded indebtedness was created to raise money for the erecwas created to raise money for the erection of a county hospital. Howland contended that the Supervisors had exceeded their power, because two-thirds of the qualified voters of the county had not voted in favor of the issuance of the bonds. The special election on the question as to whether the indebtedness should be created was held November 8, 1882, on the same day as a general election. Votes to the number of 6500 were cast at the general election, but the returns showed that 3890 electors voted in favor of the issuance of bonds and 1006 against.

If two-thirds of all the votes cast were necessary to legally justify the issuance of bonds, then the proposition was defeated, but the court Leld that the law does not require a vote of two-thirds of all votes cast at the general election. It only requires two-thirds of all those cast at the special election, which happened, in this instance, to be held on the same day as the general election. Under this construction the vote was sufficient.

Hip Sing Lee Offers a Dowery With SAN JOSE, Sept. 23.—Hip Sing Lee

a wealthy Chinese merchant of this city, offers a half interest in his axin cash to any reputable young American who will marry his daughter, Mo

Lee.

Hip Sing Lee is the weakhiest Chinese in this valley, and his fortune is estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000. He conducts a general merchandise store, with a lottery game on the side, in this city, and has branch stores in Watsonville, Santa Cruz and Salinna. Lee has become thoroughly Americanized, and as he is getting old, it is his wish to see his daughter happily married to some good American who will look after and care for his business and wealth. Lee's wife died about a year ago, and as several attempts have year ago, and as several attempts hav been made to kidnap Moi he fears the f Moi does not marry soon the high binders will kidnap her.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.

Iwo of Them Which Nearly Destroyed Knight's Ferry. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

MODESTO, Sept. 23.-Knight's Ferry visited by two destructive fires last night. The first fire burned K. Vogt's night. The first fire burned K. Vogt's saloon and lodging-house; Jacob Slook's Riverside Hotel, Beckworth & Co.'s butcher shop, Boone & Shoemaker's blacksmith shop, two small buildings, and an old brick building formerly used as a courthouse, owned by Judge A. Hewitt. All of the property except the hotel and courthouse were partially insured.

At the second fire the residence of Manfred Smith was burned. The totaloss is $12,000; insurance about $9000. The first fire started in a lodging house above Vogt's saloon. The cause is unknown. The fire destroyed the greater part of the town. The cause of the second fire is unknown.

GEGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
SACRAMENTO, Sept. 23.—Senator E. C. Hart and Maj. A. W. Anderson, at-torneys for Ivan Kavolev, the escaped torneys for Ivan Kavolev, the escaped Siberian convict now under arrest here charged with the murder of F. H. L. Weber and wife, have been working on the line of defense, it is said, to show that Kavolev is the victim of a conspiracy; that he, being an escape from Siberian penal servitude, has become the object of the vengeance of the Russian government, or that he knows too much about the operations of a gang of Russian thieces and that they decided to get him out of the way, even by fastening the charge of murder on him.

Robbed a Faro Game.

SPOKANE (Wash.) Sept. 23.—Last night a man with a handkerchief over his face and a revolver in his hand stepped into the Le Roi clubrooms and robbed the faro game of $25. He then made his escape. He leveled his gun at the men in the room and told them to keep still, then helped himself from the drawer. The men in the room were too dazed to give the alarm.

Farmer Kasson Dead.

STOCKTON. Sept. 23.—George M. Kasson, one of the wealthlest farmers in the county, and a bachelor, died yesterday at his home near Banta. He was a stock-dealer for many years, and was at one time associated with Jefferson James of San Francisco.

White and Yellow Corn.

(Florida Agriculturist:) Whether the yield of corn is affected by color, and whether the white or the yellow varie-ties produce the greater yield, has alties produce the greater yield, has al-ways been a matter of dispute. In or-der to secure definite information in regard to this the Mississippi Experi-ment Station has made 138 tests with forty-five varieties of dent corn. As a result of this work the seventy-five tests with twenty-five white varieties have given an average yield of forty-three bushels per acre, while the sixtythree bushels per acre, while the sixty-three tests with fifty yellow varieites have given an average of only 38.2 bushels per acre. The error in the compass also uppears to have contributed to the loss of the vessel in causing her to be taken in side her course up to the 27th of August, when the error in the compass was discovered and rectified.

The Golden Gate is Well Protected From Hostlie Fleets.

MEGULAN ASSOCIATED PRESS REFORT. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The United States government is now able from the white varieties, that the published records of similar work done at other stations have been examined very carefully, and have been found to correspond very closely with the results secured at this station.

These figures show that in a total of 1267 tests with 490 varieties, the average yield of 217 white varieties has been 2.5 bushels per acre in excess of the yield of 273 yellow varieties; and that at only one of the seven stations making these tests have the yellow varieties given the better average yield. At six of the seven stations some one white variety has given the best yield, and of the thirty-five varieties named as giving the best yields at the different stations, twenty-four are white and only seven are yellow.

Such, an agreement in results over such a wide area, and secured by such a large number of careful tests, cannot be accidental, but shows very plainly that it is usually possible to secure greater yields from white than from yellow varieties.

(San Diego Union:) Los Angeles merchants are anxious to find an outlet for trade through the newly-completed Tehuantepec Railway. The Times suggests that it would be a good idea for them "to join with their brethren in San Diego and endeavor to have the steamers stop at one of the ports of this county." Members of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, who have taken prompt steps to have the steamers of the proposed new line call here, will, doubtless, be grateful for the co-operation of the Los Angeles people. Should the vessels only touch at one port in Southern California, that port will, of course, be San Diego. It is possible, however, that an arrangement could be made for them also to stop, when the weather permits, at Redondo or Santa Monica.

No Public Library in Washington

(Harper's Weekly:) The city of Washington is the one large city in the United States which has no public library. There are libraries in plenty and there are more books in these libraries (counting the library of Congress) than in the libraries of any other city in America. But there is no library for general use except the Congressional Library, and the use of that is so restricted that it does not serve the purpose of a public library in any great degree. The need of public-library facilities has led to a movement, inaugurated by Theodore Noyes, of the Washington Evening Star, for the establishment of a public library by congressional enactment, Unfortunately Washington is dependent wholly on Congress for its laws, and Congress specifies the uses to which its funds shall be put. There is no way to establish a public library in the city without a special law of Congress unless some public-spirited citizen will endow one. And Congress is notoriously slow in action. Therefore the Fifty-third Congress has gone out of ex.s. ence wi.hout taking action on the library bill.

The library of Congress is the largest library in the United States. In fact, it is one of the largest libraries in the world. It is growing constantly under the provisions of the copyright law; for Librarian Sponford has to mourn the fact that Congress acclines to make large appropriations for the purchase of books, and the copyright contributions and the books obtained by exchange with other countries (chiefly public reports) are the chief accessions which the library receives. The annual appropriation for the purchase of books and for subscriptions to magazines, of which the library receives a large number, is $10,000. Of the books purchased, the most valuable, in the eyes of Librarian Spofford, are in the set of the London Gazette from 1665, which was obtained at an auction in London. The librarian has agents all over the world, who keep him advised of books which are offered for sale. The most valuable contribution to the contents of the lib this country are lew, and the chinese volumes.

It is possible at all times to consult the books and pamphlets in the library, and many students record to the Capitol for that purpose. In fact, there are many visitors who toke hundreds of miles to avail themselves of the unequalled facilities of the library.

Electricity and Transportation.

(Harper's Weekly:) The world just now is not wondering as to the application of electrical motors to street cars; the question is, will electric locomotives supersed steam locomotives on the great railroads, and if so, when? This question is made doubly interesting just now from the fact that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has just adopted electricity for use in hauling trains through the new tunnel just finished beneath the city of Baltimore, and from the further fact that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Company is now operating a branch line, about seven miles long, from Old Colony House Station to Nantasket Beach. A brief description of this road and its equipment will enable the reader to know how much of a departure its successful completion and operation indicate.

ure its successful completion and operation indicate.

There are many curves on the Nantasket Beach road, there being twenty in the line, and these extend 4.4 miles out of the total length of 6.9 miles. The read is double-tracked through its entire length. The roadisdouble-tracked through its entire length. The roadbed is solidly built and heavily ballasted. The trolley wire is of novel construction and shape. The lower part is somewhat larger than the upper, and the clip from the cross-arm fits securely around the upper section, leaving a smooth and unbroken surface for the contact of the trolley wheel. The trolley wire is of 433,000 circular mils capacity.

The motor cars are of two types, the closed and the open. The closed cars are heavy baggage cars, and four are already in service. The open cars are sixteen reversible-bench cars, and have received their equipment. The open cars resemble the familiar city trolley car, but have a flight of three continuous steps by which admission is gained to the car. The closed motor cars are forty-two feet long over all, and are built extra heavy, weigning each, when fully-equipped, over thirty tons. each, when fully equipped, over thirty tons. Two of the four have two motors on one truck, while the two otners have four motors, two on each of the two trucks. The motors used are the General Electric 2000 machines, especially designed for heavy work, and are similar to those in successful-use on the Metropolitan Elevated Railway in Chicago. They are water tight and fire-proof. The draw-bar pull of the two-motor cars is 4000 pounds, the motors being 100-horse power each, or 2000 pounds horizontal draw-bar pull through a thirty-three-inch wheel. The current is brought from the trolley wires by means of a trolley provided with a wheel having an extra-deep channel to the motors through the General Electric series parallel controller, set up on the right-hand side of the platform. Immediately to the left of the controller is the air-brake handle. The compressed air for the brakes and whistle is furnished by an oscillating cylinder air-compressor operated by an electric motor, which is controlled by a electric motor, which is controlled by a cylinder air-compressor operated by an electric motor, which is controlled by a special automatic rheostat, which regulates the action of the motor in accordance with the pressure in the tanks.

being furnished by single motor-cars.

The tests made on this line are of considerable interest. The first showed that the motor-car alone or with a small load could run at a higher speed than that attained by ordinary express locomotives, and maintain the speed without difficulty and without apparent effort. This test gave rise to some exaggerated newspaper reports as to the speed attained. Subsequent tests were made with the locomotive or motor-car as a freight-hauler, and not less than fifteen heavily-loaded freight-cars were easily moved and carried along the line at a high rate of speed. So far everything was satisfactory. Since then fifty miles an hour has been reached in another test.

reached in another test.

Corner on Oranges.

(Florida Agriculturist:) The orange growers of Florida, as long as they were in business, made many abortive efforts at organization and coloperation. We say abortive because the growers soon tired of the organizations and left them, and they failed for that reason. In some cases, where the associations were founded on business principles and had solid, wide-awake business men at the head, we believe they would eventually have achieved success had not the members tired so soon. No business can be built up in a season. Any successful business man, or any firm that has achieved any degree of success, will tell us that the first few years they were in business the profits were smaller and the times harder than during any subsequent period. Our growers, banded to gether for a stated purpose, when they failed to see the realization of that purpose after the first year or so, did not have the patience and perseverance to stick to it until the business had established itself on a profitable, foundation.

We believe they will profit by the experience of the past years, and when the groves again commence to bear, we confidently expect to see an organization that will control and market the entire orange product of the State; if not all, at least enough to place the organization in a position to dictate terms and prices. The formation of such a company will be easier with a smaller yield, as the number of shareholders in the trust or organization will not be so numerous; and besides this, we think that the class of people who will remake their groves will be of the higher order of intelligence, and will more readily appreciate the benefits to be derived from a combination of forces.

Speaking of this matter of combinations reminds us that the dealers—those who handle the produce we ship—appear never to have the least trouble in forming any kind of an organization that will redound to their profit and appear never to have the least trouble in forming any kind of an organization that will redound to their profit and interest. When they see that a combine will help them, they forthwith proceed to combine, and they stay in the combination until the object is

Of course that portion of fruit shipped from Florida will cut no figure, as the number of boxes will be too small to count in the general aggregate; but the neighboring island of Jamaica produces considerable fruit, and it is among the best that is imported to this country. These dealers of Boston above referred to have formed a combine, and have cornered the orange crop of Jamaica for the next three years. Already preparations are being made to market the crop of the coming season, and a large quantity of crate material and expert packers have been sent over, many of the latter going from Florida, in the employ of the Boston company. The corner on the Jamaica crop was effected by lease. As soon as it was

The corner on the Jamaica crop was effected by lease. As soon as it was definitely known that the crop of Florida would not materialize for several years the Boston company was formed, representatives sent to the island, and leases of the largest and most productive groves effected for a period of three years, at which time it was thought the Florida fruit would be in the market again.

Florida fruit would be in the market again.

The company will revolutionize the packing and marketing system of the island. Heretofore the method has been very crude. The fruit in many cases was pulled from the trees, in which case, of course, all of it was plugged and its keeping onalities materially afand its keeping qualities materially affected. After the fruit was gathered in this way it was carted or carried to in this way it was carted or carried to shipping points, unpacked, and dumped into barrels. The fruit, as before said, is very nice, but, of course, was not given a fair show with this kind of treatment. Properly picked and nicely packed, it is possible that it may become a dangerous competitor to the Florida product. It is certainly very superior to the California or Mediterranean fruit, the chief objection to the Jamaica orange coming from those who prefer an acid orange, as the Jamaica fruit is very sweet.

King Humbert of Italy is a strict vegetarian in his diet, and the only drink he takes is Bordeaux, very much diluted with water. Bread, potatoes and oranges are the food which agrees best with him. The German Emperon asked him some time ago what was his favorite edible, and, on hearing that it was neaches he at once ordered $509. was peaches, he at once ordered $500 worth of the very best to be sent to him.

The Berlin Echo has discovered that among the Chinese is "milhi" is prized as the most delless dish. It consists of new-born files, still blind. Soldiers in the Regular Army Take the Keeley Cure-What Gen. Forsyth Says of the Result.

By an arrangement made with the Keeley Institute Company some months ago for the administration of the Keeley Treatm. It for the liquor and opium diseases at your Leavenworth, soldiers in the regular army now enjoy the benefit of Lr. Keeley's noted cure. Whi e negotiations were in progress General James W. Forsyth. commander of Fort Riley, wrote the war department, urging that arrangements be made by which the treatment could be secured for soldiers at the regular army posts. his letter, written as it was after a thorough practical test of the cure among men in his own command, is an indirect ment of remarkable weight. He has this to say of the history of the Keeley work among the Foit kiley men:

"We started just one year ago, sending men to the Keeley Institute on furnough, and since that time eighty-six men of this garrison have been treated."

and since that time eighty-six men of this garrison have been treated.

"I am not speaking from theory when I refer to the effects of the treatment. I speak irom an ample experience—from the closest observation. Statements made at out the treatment being deleterious to health are bosh. It is just exactly the contrary. I have seen these nervous, haggard, distressed looking drunkards go away from here, and when reporting to me upon their return, I di in ot need (after observing the complete physical metamorphosis, which had taken place in one month,) to hear them say they never felt better in their lives, to believe the treatment had 'een a physical as well as a moral benefit to them. "The effect upon disclosine here is simply marvelous. I don't want, if I can possibly prevent it in any way, to be depr ved of the lossibility of cett ag this treatment until every man needing it in my command has had the opportunity to procure it at a price within his means. I say without the slightest hesitation that, as a means of emuch good as an arrangement by which soid ers could procure this treatment."—(Kansas City, Mo, Star.

If the Ke-lev treatment will do so much for the old boys in blue, and it is half as good as Gen Forsyth says it is, it outh to be a pretty good thing for any one who is a victim of alcohol.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. T. B. Eiker is special agent for the Chicago Herald, and his office in New York city is at No. 50 Tribune Building. He is a strong, virile man, not the sort of person to often require medicines; and is specially opposed to pills of any sort, finding them too violent in their action. In case of any irregularity he had always relied upon the use of fruits, until one day on a railway journey a friend directed his attention to Ripans Tabules and gave him some from a box he had in his portmanteau. He made use of them when occasion offered, and the result in his case was all that could be desired. He now depends upon Ripans Tabules entirely in the case of any irregularity of the bowels or derangement of the digestive appraratus. Mr. Elker is a picture of health and manly vigor, is a hearty eater, and he regards a Tabule after a hearty meal as a sort of insurance policy against future ills of any sort. The Eureka grocery, at the corner Wall and Sixth strets, is not a verimposing emporium of trade. Neverth less a great many people flocked the yesterday. In fact, the rush began early as Saturday. Most of the visite were horny-handed sons of toll, as they did not go there to trade. If the had the stock of goods would so have been sold out, for there was not great quantity of it on the shelv

Not Wishing to be left on a good thing, a Times reporter joined the processon that wended its way to Mr. Henry's "I have-found-it" corner grocery. When he arived there he found a red-whiskered, mild-mannered individual behind the counter, explaining to an Irish woman the plans of the Arkansas gold-mining syndicate, and telling how her husband could have a steady job at from $2.50 to $5 a day. The woman evidently appeared satisfied with the prospects and went away saying she would send the "old man" around to register, as he was not making near so much money in Los Angeles.

The man with red whiskers was Mr. Henry. All his time seemed to be taken up with answering questions, but the grocery business did not appear to languish on account of the lack of the proprietor's personal attention to it. It simply languished for want of customers, for the trade did not make any more demands on the time of the one lone lorn clerk, while the reporter was there, than on the time of the proprietor, and the woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor, and so he woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor, and so he woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor, and so he woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor, and so he woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor, and so he woman was gone, three busky would-ke sould like the proprietor.

there, than on the time of the preprietor.

As soon as the woman was gone, three husky would-be gold-diggers and the reporter, who was not exactly pining to emigrate to Arkansas, stepped up to the counter and began to ply Mr. Henry with questions about the Arkansas Eldorado. The gentleman with the meek eyes and the red whiskers, as though somewhat alarmed at the magnitude of the scheme he was working, betrayed considerable nervousness as he proceeded to tell the anxious inquirers all about it.

In the first place, Mr. Henry said he proceeded to tell the anxious inquirers all about it.

In the first place, Mr. Henry said he was one of a company who had valuable gold-bearing lands in Benton county. Ark., which they were about to decelop on a large scale and at a considerable outlay of capital. He, himself, had come to Los Angeles to embark in business because his health was so delicate that he could not stand the cold weather in Arkansas. There was money to be made, though, in the Arkansas gold-diggings and the company was not afraid to spend money liberally in the development of the mines.

In reply to the question why laborers were being hired here instead of nearer to the works, Mr. Henry said it would be a good advertisement for the mines if a trainload of miners was taken from California to the diggings. It would be a big boom for the company, and while the expense would be greater than to hire men nearer at home, it would be a paying investment on account of the wide attention to the property it would attract.

CONGRESS AND FREE SILVER.

rately by us.

There has been considerable specuation as to how the next House of Representatives would stand on the coinage question. Not the least doubt has been ententained at any time that the House would contain a majority for sound money; but the nerical strength of the majority has en a matter of some doubt. This doubt has been set at rest to a coniderable extent by the canvass of the embers-elect which has recently been made by the Sound-money Committee New York Chamber of Comherce, the result of which was an nounced in Monday morning's disatches. The poll of the House, it appears, showed that 88 members favo free-silver coinage, 216 are opposed to it, and 52 have not defined their po sition on the question. Of the 88 free silverites 51 are Democrats, 30 are Re publicans and 7 are Populists.

In the light of these figures, the erst while claims and boastings of the flat silver organs become picturesquely ridiculous. The utterances of these lated to convey the impression that the whole country was up in arms for rtain of a large majority in the next Congress. These same organs are not saying much at the present time, evintly having heard something drop. The discussion of the currency quesion, which their persistent thrusting forward of the issue did much to precipitate, proved to be a boomerang for the flatists of large size and energetic claims was exposed, their false logic was refuted, and their theory of finance was demolished, from foundation to superstructure, by pitiless volleys of cold logic and incontrovertible facts.

The last straw has been added to the urden of the silverites' discomfiture, n the poll of Congressmen-elect, showity the flatist forces will find themselves upon the assembling of Con-. It is now in order for them to rawl into their holes, quietly but irmly pull the holes in after them

And what of those few loud-mouthed ad bumptious California Republican arnals which brashly undertook to down the free-silver doctrine in the of the uniform party traditions and practices, and then weakened in their new-born faith and fell down on den silence that has fallen upon mouths that were erstwhile wont to break out

In the course of an excellent editorial commenting on the recent speech of Gov. Turney at Chickamauga, wherein the speaker expressed his be-that that the South was right, and de-lion because some of the Territories refused to accept slavery and because a President had been elected according to the requirements of the Constitution, but who was not the choice of the South; if it was right to rebel against the national government under such circumstances, then it would be equally right to raise another rebellion if the South should be dissatisfied with the course of the government in the future."

consists in a treatise on the "Quality of Money and Wages," by Frank L. McVey. The discussion is condensed but comprehensive and covers the currency experience of the United States, China, Japan, India and Mexico. The article is accompanied by tables and diagrams which sustain its positions. Mr. McVey demonstrates that the condition of wage-earners is far better in gold-standard than in silver-standard countries, and points out with clearness and force just why it is so. He shows that an appreciation of the standard and consequent fall in prices has uniformly added to the prosperity of the wage-earner, and that depreciation of the currency and consequent rise in prices results invariably in his damage-the experience of gold and silver-standard nations alike demonstrating that wages rise more slowly than do prices, but, once adjusted, are more slow to fall.

It is peculiarly gratifying to read of the prompt and vigorous manner in which the Chicago police sat down upon the English Anarchist, Mowbray, when he began railing at the American flag. We have no use for such vermin as Mowbray in this country. The Chicago police have had some experlence with Anarchists, and they evidently do not propose to have that ex-perience repeated. It will now be in order for E. V. Debs, Lucy Parsons Johann Most, "Kier" Hardie and other big-mouthed advocates of disorder to denounce the summary squelching of Mowbray as a "crime," an "outrage, Charles Day Rose, the Englishman who has cabled a challenge for another contest for the America's cup, is evidently a true sportsman. He does no propose to split hairs over conditions but expresses confidence in the fairness of the Americans. The gentleman will be given every possible opportunity to win the contest on its merits. He will carry off the cup-provided his yacht is the faster. If he comes to us in a generous and manly spirit, Americans will meet him half way on every tack.

The editor of Harper's Weekly holds up his holier-than-thou hands in solemn protest against "the triumph much the personal triumph of Quay which troubles him as it is the unmistakable evidence of Republican harmony in Pennsylvania. A journal Tammany crew cuts a very sorry figure in attempting to cast reproach

The question of Greater Los Angeles, which will soon come before the voters of this city and its suburbs for decision, is a question of grave imsections which it is proposed to annex. Every voter should study the question intelligently. Soner or later the outlying districts must be absorbed by absorption has arrived is the question of the hour,

It sends a shiver along the spinal Colorado, Nebraska, Dakota, and other sections, telling of the plunge from 100 winter proportions. Such reports also have a tendency to make the Californian thankful that he resides in a land where violent barometric and ther-mometric symnastics are unknown.

"Gov." Turney of Tennessee, whose treasonable utterances at the Chickanauga dedication have heretofore beer ommented upon, is occupying an office be which his Republican opponent, H. Hay Evans, was elected by the peo-ile. Turney was "elected" by the Democratic Legislature, which reversed the expressed will of the voters.

The British athletes were fairly and thoroughly outmatched by the American boys. A like result would have been attained in the Defender-Valkyrie races had not Lord Dunraven "flunked." His "Ludship" evidently saw the handwriting on the wall.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

ORPHEUM.—The week was ushered in at this house last night by a strong, well-balanced and varied programme-one of the best of the season—with Cemell-balanced and varied programme—one of the best of the season—with Ceballos, the shapely athlete, at both ends of it in his sprightly feats of equilibrism and evolutions over the heads of the auditors in the parquet on the high wire. Of course Gilbert and Goldie received a lively reception; they always do. Their act this week is on the Hibernian order, and scarcely so clever as is usual with them. The plug hat sell, in which a couple of dummys in the audience help out the performers on the stage, is neither new nor entertaining, but they crack jokes with as much snap as ever, and even at their poorest are a team hard to beat. The novelty feature of the bill was the Farbianu troupe, a quartette of Russians garbed in the costumes of that land of the picturesque, in native songs and dances, all of which were generously applauded. Thomas C. Leary, the unctious comedian with a rollicking style that captivates his listeners, made a great big hit in his merry songs. Wright and O'Brien, a naity, well-dressed team, stylish and up to date, gained favor at once. They are earnest workers and extremely clever singers, comedians and mimics. Their big New York success, "And the Band Flayed On," is a song that haunts and the town will have it on the brain before the week is out. Moreland, Thompson and Bush, a novelty trio, in unique funnyisms, dances, duets and there-part songs, are excellent. Miss Thompson in buck and wing dances can "trow down" any darky that ever shook a foot or cut a pigeon-wing, and their performance is both novel and interesting.

BURBANK THEATER.—The Frohman Company have kept their best play for their last week, as "The Minister" is by odds the superior in construction, in the flow of its lines and in the terseness of its dialogue over either of the pleces in which they have previously appeared. Sedley Brown, as a playwright, has certainly something in him. His types of character are true to nature, and his tough from the neighborhood of Canal street, is a work of art both as written and as played by the author-actor. To the extreme regret of her friends, Anna Parker, who has been working hard at rehearsals for her appearance as Joe Wilson, a part that fits her extremely well, was taken ill last Thursday and has not been able to go on with her work since. Georgie Woodthorpe jumped into the breach at short notice and made quite a success in the role. Thamas Reynolds, in the title role, played with his usual painstaking effectiveness, and achieved distinction. Nana A. Cutler, a Los Angeles debutante, appeared as Mary Mortimer, and gives many evidences of genuine dramatic ability. She has poise, grace, a good voice, and the ability to disguise herself in the assumption of a character. Anna McGregor made a strong impression as Cynthia Jones, the meddlesome busybody, as did Adele Nott in the role of Olive Goodwin. AN IRRIGATION PUZZLE.

THE SIXTEEN WATER COMPANIES AT REDLANDS.

How the Upper Santa Ana Valley is the Waters of the Santa Ana River and Mill, Plunge and San Timoteo Creeks.

It would be difficult to conceive of a more complicated system or combina-tion of systems of irrigation plants than that which exists in the upper Santa Ana Valley, including Redlands, High-Gladysta tracts, and the San Timoteo Canyon, which form a group of organizations, most of which are interwoven in interest with others, and at the same time have relationships with the Bear Valley Company, of which, however, they are practically independent.

I consider it highly important that these irrigation systems be spoken of as a group that the fact can be properly set forth that their prosperity and success is in no way dependent upon the Bear Valley Company. It may have seemed strange that while the water used in the Upper Santa Ana Valley is taken principally from the Bear Valley reservoir, the failure of the Bear Valley company has in no way jeopardised the water rights. This is due to the fact that the people owning the land own their water supply as independently as though it were never impounded in the Bear Valley reservoir.

There are streams coming into the valley near its head in order of their importance, as follows: Santa Ana River, Mill Creek, Plunge Creek and San Timoteo Creek. These each contribute to the irrigation of the valley. The first irrigation in the valley was about 1821, when the missionary fathers constructed the zanja from Mill Creek, above where Crafton now is, to the old branch of the San Gabriel Mission, near the present site of Old San Bernardino. Later the church property was confiscated by Mexico and the land was granted to Jose Maria Lugo in 1842. In 1862 the property, including the water right, was purchased by the Mormons, who entered the valley the previous year. Subsequently M. H. Crafts secured an interest in the water, which has become a part of the Crafton water right.

In 1853 the North Fork ditch was built to take water onto the Highlands side, and about the same time the South Fork ditch was on the Highlands or north side of the river. From 1875 to 1877 transfers of individual interests of Highlands, it is necessary to add that subsequently the Bear Valley Company where Redlands has since grown up.

To complete the history of the water interests of Highlands, it is necessary to add that subsequently the Bear Valley Company when the South Fork there grew up in time a diversity of interests. The rival towns of Redlands canal. The Redlands Water Company.

Again there grew up a difference of interests in the Sunnyside C into existence by the direct purchase of water from the Bear Valley Land and Water Company and the acquisition of Craft's right in Mill Creek zanja.

The East Redlands system was formed by combining interests in the Crafton and Redlands systems, while the Redlands Heights Company is an outgrowth of an interest in the Crafton the Rediands Heights Company is an outgrowth of an interest in the Crafton system.

The Mentone Water Company has an independent system depending on water developed by tunneling into hills.

The development of water in San Timoteo Creek has been carried on by individuals.

Thus within a radius of four miles of the Rediands postoffice are no less than sixteen systems of irrigation, of which but two are without relationship to others, and but three without relationship to the great central organisation, the Bear Valley Irrigation Company.

Yet this relationship, as has been said, does not leave a possibility of any misfortune to the fiscal affairs of the Bear Valley Company affecting the interests of the irrigators in the valley.

There are three classes of agreements between the central company and the distributing companies.

The first of these agreements is with the holders of the original South Fork ditch rights, and is to the effect that the Bear Valley Company guarantees certain stipulated flows of water during irrigating months and less amounts during the balance of the year, and if at any time the central company is unable to fulfill its contracts, the water-rights revert to the original holders or their assigns.

The second class of agreements is based on deeds to the Crafton and Domestic companies of water in the reservoir.

price of the stock, Indian be added that subsequent of stock were issued for share, and the watered stoc to over $100 per share.

regarding the relationship of the various companies, and yet there is no conflict between these organisations. Each has its own territory for operations, and inasmuch as there is no one of the companies which sells water, only stockholders being served, and they at cost under the co-operative eystem, there is no object for encreachments upon each other's fields.

In a machine of so complicated construction it might be feared that the cog-wheels might fail to work into one another smoothly. Such, however, is not the case. There has never been any jar among the irrigation companies at Rediands, but everything works so smoothly, so economically to the orchardists that it is rarely one hears a reference to the various companies, and it might easily happen that one would reside in the valley some time and not know that there is more than one company.

These companies are important as types of organizations of ranchers doing effective co-operative work without the aid of the Wright irrigation district law.

Grapes and Raisins.

(Tulare Register:) D. J. F. Reed returned last night from Fresno, where he went to inquire into the grape and raisin outlook as viewed from the standpoint of our neighbors. He learned some things, not without value. Five or six cars of grapes have been shipped daily from Fresno, principally Malagas. Rose of Peru and Sultanas. No Musoats have been shipped. Mr. Reed interested the Earl Fruit Company in our Muscat crop, and representatives of that house will be up to Tulare tomorrow to look at the vineyards here. It satisfactory they will send material and packers here to send out some of our green grapes. It is thought that fifteen or twenty cars may be packed up here without trouble, which will lessen the difficulties before the raisin-growers just that much.

It was found that cash offers have been made for raisins in the sweathox as high as 2 and 24 cents, but there is a condition attached, namely, one-half the crop must be layer claim enforced, the grower reaches the old consignment hole by another route.

HOME PRODUCTION. The Virtue of "Keeping Everybody

(San Diego Union:) San Diego will not be truly prosperous until the city and adjoining country are less dependent upon the outside world for the ordinary commodities of every-day use. This community at present is sending away too much of the money which might be kept at home. In this respect it does not differ much from many other parts of Southern California. This section of the State has always relied too much upon the northern portion and upon the East. Late years, it is true, have wrought a very material change in this respect, but there is still much room for improvement. The greatest gain will probably be found in Los Angeles county. Khen the beom collapsed and town lots could no longer be sold at fancy prices, people there plowed them up and began to raise crops. The result is that they now have somthing to send to market. There were shipped from Los Angeles and vicinity last winter not far from one thousand carloads of cabages. a commodity that brings good prices in the East every winter; many carloads of celery, and onions, snother crop that is profitable, to say nothing of other commodities. The people of Los Angeles county do not purchase outside a quarter of what they did ten years ago, and they have plenty to sell. One need not wonder at the growth of Los Angeles, in view of these facts. It must not be supposed, however, that these dhanged conditions were brought about in a day. It was a hard task to wean people from the notion that town lots, climate and tourists' trade were to be the stable industries for all time. The press of bast city and county, however, kept up a viberous crusade for home production. The Chinese gardeners, too, taught their white neighbors a needed lesson in money-making, and little by little better times, founded on substantial industries, were the result.

What Los Angeles has done San Diego could do equally well—better, in fact, for people here have the ocean highway right at their doors for shipment of their commodities. As matters are, San Diegans continue to rely too m

It has been rather warm during the past couple of days, but still that was nothing in comparison with the sort of weather that they have been "enjoying" along the Mississippi Valley. It will be interesting to note the dis-position made by the Police Commis-sion today of the little list of saloon men who were discovered by police of-ficers (and Times reporters) to have violated the Sunday closing ordinance ten days ago. This list is known to contain the prominent liquor dealers, and any hesitancy shown by the com-missioners in standing by the policy inaugurated, of revoking a license when reliable proof of a violation of the law s shown, will inevitably be construed to mean a disavowal and discontinu-ance of the policy referred to. The in-ferences that would be drawn from such a deviation would be neither flattering nor consoling to the officials, who have it in their power to stop, and summarily stop, the disregard of the law exhibited by the saloon men.

The mule was one used by Hannon & Kolster, contractors, in grading Cherry street. When they got through with their job they abandoned the animal which was too sick to be taken away. The mule died and the carcass was allowed to remain there till the people in the neighborhood complained about the stench. The matter was reported to Humane Officer Hutchins. He investigated and found that W. B. Nichols, and not the contractors who had used it, was the owner of the mule. Mr. Hutchins refused to prosecute Nichols, because in a similar case where he prosecuted and convicted a man, the court fined the culpit only 32, whereas it cost the city 34.95 to burn the carcass. With this precedent established it is cheaper for owners of decrepit animals to turn them out to die and let the city dispose of the carcass, than to have them die on the owner's hands. As the Humane Officer declined to take action in the matter, the police department brought a charge against Nichols and is prosecuting it.

CITY COUNCIL.

A Scheme to Dispense With Two

The City Council, during its session sterday received the following com-unication from the Citizens' League: We wish to call your attention to the act passed by the last Legislature viding for the abolishment of the of-s of City Assessor and City Tax Colflees of City Assessor and City Tax Collector, and the performance of their duties by the County Assessor and County Tax Collector, respectively. The law referred to makes such abolishment optional with the Council, and in view of the economy and efficiency which the doing sway with these offices would effect in the city government, we respectfully request you to take the action authorized by this law. "We trust that your honorable body will give this matter attention at your earliest convenience, and that you will give this matter attention at your earliest convenience, and that you will give this the city the benefit of this much-needed change."

Finance Committee met with disapproval from some members of that committee, and a special committee was then appointed by President Teed, consisting of Councilmen Munson, Kingery and Snyder, to whom the matter was referred. Instructions were given the committee to confer with the City Attorney in preparing the draft of an ordinance by which the proposed change may be made.

cation to the Council reading as follows:

"Realising the growth of the city, taking into account general sanitary conditions, and desiring to meet the necessities of a large congregation, I have determined to close as early as possible the old cemetery grounds situated on Buena Vista street, and to open for cemetery purposes a piece of ground belonging to the diocese, situated on the extreme eastern border of the city, remote from any improvement, positive or prospective, some distance beyond the Evergreen Cemetery, known as lots 3 and 4, block 78, Hancock survey, city of Los Angeles, containing about fifty-two acres.

two acres.

"Please consider this an application to your honorable body for such permission to establish said cemetery in said location, as may be necessary."

The request of the bishop was referred to the Board of Health, which will report to the Council as to the fitness of the location selected by the bishop for a cemetery.

H. M. Ames, who has obtained some notoriety through the communications in he has addressed to the Council and the newspapers, dealing with the injustice he claims to suffer by reason of the city's action in selling the river water to non-residents of the city, appeared before the Council yesterday with the request that he be allowed to address the members of that body upon his favorite subject. The permission was granted, and Mr. Ames told the Councilmen that he considered them little better than a gang of robbers, in that they sold and took money for that which did not belong to them. His statements were resented by the Councilmen, and he was finally dismissed upon a motion made by Councilman Munson.

recommendation that proposals for a telephone franchise be advertised for. The franchise submitted by the board was changed in several particulars by the Council. By the terms of the franchise the person obtaining it must expend $10,000 within one year from the date of its receipt, and the same amount during the second year. A clause in the franchise by which the right was given to use electricity for telephonic and "other purposes for the transmission of intelligence." was changed so that the franchise srants no right to use the plant which may be put in for any save telephonic uses. Mr. de Laguna, the petitioner for the franchise, was disgusted with the changes made, and declared that no capitalist could be found to bid for the franchise as it now reads. The owner of the Nordholt property on East Sixth street, recently purchased by the city for a school site, appeared before the Council to explain why he is not able to present a clear title in the property claims to have a lease of the same for one year from June 1, 1995. Upon the promise of the owner, made to the Council, that he would settle the dispute and present a clear title before October 2, the matter was dropped.

The City Water Company came in for some discussion yesterday, when a motion was made by Councilman Stockwell that certain fire hydrants in his ward be repaired. It developed during the discussion upon this motion, that the water company claims to have repaired all the hydrants in the city, and, in accordance with the Council several months ago, deposited on the 4th of this month, $50 with the City Treasurer, which sum was to have been used by the city in repairing the hydrants. Upon the motion of Councilman Savage the City Treasurer was instructed to return the $50 to the water company, and the Superintendent of Street-Sprinkling was directed to repair the hydrants and keep an exact account of the money expended in the work.

Referred to the Board of Public Works.

The Council then adjourned to meet on Friday at 2 o'clock.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE COURTS.

Injunction Dissolved on the Main-street Paving Contract.

Judge Van Dyke yesterday ordered in the case of W-A. Field vs. P. A. Howard et al., that the order to show cause why an injunction should not issue be dismissed, and that the temporary restraining order be dissolved.

This is the case, it will be remembered, where suit was brought to enjoin the Street Superintendent from entering into a contract with the Union Paving Company for the paving of Main street. It was contended that the proceedings taken in the case were not according to law.

In his opinion accompanying the order, Judge Van Dyke recites that it was claimed the ordinance of intention was not published the number of times required; that is, it should be published twice according to the city charter before it takes effect, and that thereafter it should be published twice more to comply with the Vrooman act, under which the proceedings were had.

The opinion holds that the street law or Vrooman act is a general law, and by the Constitution as well as numerous decisions of the Supreme Court, the city charter is subject and subordinate to a general law. The general law only requires the publication of the resolution of intention to do the work by two insertions or two publications, and this, it is admitted, was done in the present case.

By the very terms of the street law, the only less realizer.

it is admitted, was done in the present case.

By the very terms of the street law, the opinion recites: "No publication or notice other than that provided for in this act shall be necessary to give validity to any of the proceedings provided for therein,"

It is further contended that the bid and bond of the Union Paving Company are not properly executed. They were submitted on the stime piece of paper, the bid preceding the bond. It was contended by the plaintiff that the bid and bond were invalid from the fact that they were not signed by the president of the corporation. The opinion holds that this is not a fatal defect, and gives reasons therefor.

In the Township Court yesterday C. D. Forbes was arraigned on a charge of disturbing the peace on the Laguna ranch. On a statement of the complaining witness that it was a case of mistaken identity the defendant was discharged.

Jane Will go to Jail.

Jane Riley, a colored woman, was on trial in Department One yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, which assault was alleged to hav occurrd about two months ago. It was shown that Jane had a quarrel, in the course of which she drew a revolver and fired it. The jury found her guilty and in accordance with the order of the court, Jane will retire to private life in the County Jail for a period of three months to think over her sins.

Appeal to the Governor.

In Department One yesterday a remittitur from the Supreme Court was received in the case of the appeal of Al Cobler, convicted in the Superior Court of embezziement. The issuance of a commitment to the State Prison was deferred for six days so as to give the defendant time to appeal to the Governor for a pardon, it is understood that this will be urged on the ground of Cobler's ill health.

Nearly sil day yesterday the door of the Grand Jury room was tightly closed and Deputy Sheriff Graham would permit only certain persons to enter. A few people who are supposed to have been called as witnesses were admitted to the room during the forenoon. The fact that most of those admitted seem to have come from the country had led to the belief that some out-of-town case is under investigation. The Grand Jury adjourned till tomorrow.

O'Brien Bank Cases Were Dismissed. A Venire Ordered.

In the United States Circuit Court yesterday the case of H. E. and George O'Brien, indicted for complicity in certain fraudulent bank transactions in San Diego, were dismissed. This is an instance, it will be remembered, where the Attorney-General ordered the United States District Attorney to move to dismiss the cases, and a motion to that effect was made in the United States District Court. Judge Wellborn was disqualified to act in the case, having been attorney for the defendants formerly. The cases were accordingly transferred to the United States Circuit Court, and yesterday the action noted was taken.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—To the Editor of The Times:) In the San Bernardino correspondence of yesterday's Times an explanation of the Desert Queen mine imbrogilo is given, which conveys the information, on the authority of the chief owner, James Mc-Haney, that the mine has been sold for ity of the chief owner, James McHaney, that the mine has been sold for $160,000. It was only five days previous that that gentleman caused it to be published that the mine had been sold for $250,000, and it is but a few weeks since he announced his refusal of an offer of $1,500,000 for it, declaring, at the same time, that no affer under $3,000,000 would be considered. It is but a few months since the far-famed strike by "J. L.McHaney, Esq., Miner," as he advertises on his buckboard, was flashed over the wires, and gave some of our desert

Munchausens a fresh opportunity to exercise their peculiar talent.

See story, from Indio, in Los Angeles dailies, some time in May last, of the discovery, by an old Arizona prospector, of a cave, half filled with gold bricks, not of "bunco" metal, but of pre-historic smelting, which discovery, though exciting no wonder in the minds of the inhabitants of that wonderland, led a cattle-man, named James McHaney, to search, with success, for the source of this long-hidden treasure; and the more recent effort of these Munchausens to exaggerate this already greatly exaggerated strike by trying to connect it with the hallucinations of "Peg-leg" Smith, in their fiction of the discovery, by McHaney, of five skeletons in an old shaft on his location.
The gold-bricks' story had a cunninglyworded advertisement of burros and miners' outfits for sale, at Indio, to the stuffile, who were expected to be stampeded from Los Angeles and other localities, inhabited by the "Sucker" family.

J. M. Hill, formerly of San Fernando, now of Santa Monica, was given lodgings at the County Jail by Sherifi Burr last night, pending the clearing up of the title to some horses which Hill took up as estrays. According to reliable reports Hill did everything in his power to find the owner, and, after advising with the Sheriff and his neighbors, and advertising them, he sold them for the claim he had for their keeping. As thore was no higher bidder, he bought them himself in satisfaction of his olaim. Later J. L. Glenn of San Fernando claimed the horses, and Constable Lopes seized them and returned them to Glenn, at the same time arresting Hill for grand lareeny. It is thought Hill is a victim of circumstances, and will be able to secure a speedy release.

ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL

STARTLING CONFESSION MADE BY

penter Tried to Extort Money from Mrs. M. E. Stevens of Spadra and Jacob Kuhn of Chicago.

According to the voluntary confes sion of one Leonard S. Dragoo, a con-spiracy to blackmail Mrs. M. E. Stevens, a wealthy young widow residing at Spadra, and her agent, Jacob Kuhn, reputed to be a Chicago millionaire, was a signal failure. The young man who made the confession claims to have was a signal failure. The young man be recorded advertisement of burners are continued to the continue of the been urged to do so by the pricks of conscience. This may or may not be true, but the fact remains that he has told Deputy District Attorney James a very sensational story. Dragoo unbosomed himself to Mr. James yesterday afternoon in substance as follows: August 4 last he went to work for Charles Meeker, a contractor who was building a house for Mrs. Stevens at Spadra. Meeker had a foreman named Roy Carpenter. Dragoo was not at Spadra long before Carpenter suggested to him that a great deal of money might be made by watching Mrs. Stevens and Kuhn, who were living togother in the same house, and supposed to be on terms more intimate than proper. The plan was for Dragoo to engage himself as a cook for Mrs. Stevens. He is a cook by drade and succeeded in getting the situation. He claims he was not in the house long before he surprised Kuhne and Mrs. Stevens for money to keep his tongue quiet. She was furious and threatened his life. She and Kuhne finally offered him a job for life if he would go to Chicago, but he declined and said that nothing but money paid in hand and lots of it, would buy him off. He staid at the house till September 20, when he left because he was afraid something serious would happen to him. Mrs. Stevens has a store at Spadra, and after Dragoo was in possession of her guilty secret, he alleges, she would leave the key in his way, apparently to tempt him to rob the store so she could have him arrested for burglary. One night she yelled "burglars" in the house in the hope that neighbors would rush in and suspect him. These experiences and the utter hopelessness of getting any money to keep him quiet at last induced him to leave. Then his conscience began to trouble him, and he made up his mind to confess. He was hastened to this conclusion from the fear that Carpenter, who, he alleges, put up the job and was to share in the ill-gotten gains, would inform on him. In order to ease his mind and get off as easily as possible, he determined to make a clean breast of it and throw himself on the merc been urged to do so by the pricks of PHOENIX, Sept. 21.—(Regular Correspondence.) The principal theme of interest for Phoenix for the past three days has been baseball. The Fort Thomas club has been here, played their series and left. They went home with a new batch of scalps in their belts. The first day interest was only moderate. The grandstand was but half full. The home club went in with a makeshift team and altogether only a moderate game was had. Thomas won. The second day it was necessary to manufacture enthusiasm. This was done by means of a band and advertisto manufacture enthusiasm. This was done by means of a band and advertising, and by the importation of four players from Prescott—Jack Cochran, Harry Coleman, E. Allen and Ed Smith. By these means a better attendance was on hand. This was Thomas day to lose, While Phoenicians will deny it, and the Thomas club of course will do likewise, there is little doubt that the game was given to take home team. The favorite method for losing was to "fan out." The playing was below average. This day Phoenix won.

for lesing was to "tan out." The playing was below average. This day Phoenix won.

The third day, however, was not a gift for anybody. Thomas played to win. They had placed, through outside parties, their money to be wagered on the game. The Phoenicians had sized the terrific score of 18 to 1 of the day before as largely their just due and offered to bet wildly on the home club. Considerable wagers were therefore up on the games. When the playing began it was plain that the visitors were at it with more vim than on the previous day. They piled up tallies alarmingly. At one time they had 14 to 2 for Thomas. In the last inning, however, they "fell to pieces." Phoenix kept scoring until the grand-stand had some hopes for the home club. Another inning and Phoenix might have won. But there was no other inning. The visitors won, scoring 15 to 13. For the three games the scores were as follows: Thomas 18, Phoenix 18, Thomas 18, Thomas 18. Phoenix 13. The visitors left $400 richer. Further games will be played.

ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP.

ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP.

The midnight train from the north was almost held up Wednesday night. A few miles south of Vulture a bomb exploded under the express car with a terrific concussion. The car was lifted several inches by the shock, but did not leave the rails. Almost immediately afterward another explosion occurred, throwing dirt and pieces of rock in the air. This, too, did no damage. The engineer realized that he had a hold-up on hand and put on more steam, and in a moment was going fifty miles an hour. The last of the attempt was seen by a passenger on the rear coach who saw a lone highwayman standing on the bank viewing with disguist and wonder the departing train. The sheriff's force went back to the scene on the next train so take up the trail. They give a different version from the foregoing, as given by passengers. The sheriff says a half keg of black powder left by the section-men exploded, being ignited by sparks from the engine. The supposed highwayman was a section-hand.

AN UNKNOWN VICTIM.

AN UNKNOWN VICTIM. The police would be very thankful to a man supposed to have several sever stabs in his side if he would come for stabs in his side if he would come forward and make complaint against his assailant, or at least identify himself. The stabbing was viewed by another witness. It was done by one McGowan. He and the unknown were in the rear of the Fowler saloon, in a half-drunken and ugly mood, and had an altercation. McGowan stabbed his adversary several times, at each thrust considerately inquiring, "How do you like the feel of that?" The injured man broke away from McGowan and disappeared. The knife blade was four inches long, and as keen as a razor on both edges. The wounds must have been serious.

DATES IN SALT VALLEY. That dates will grow successfully in this valley, as well as other tropical truits, has been practically lemonstrated this summer. The most prominent exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce comprises three bunches of dates, the largest weighing thirty-three pounds. In a state of nature the date is a light yellow fruit, smooth without, and growing in clusters not unlike grapes, except that the clusters are much larger. The samples exhibited are said to be perfect specimens of the fruit.

TUCSON. Sept. 21.—(Regular Correspondence.) The question as to whether the mesquite is a tree or a shrub is again up here. A year ago the Supreme Court of Arizona held that mesquite was not a tree, but a shrub—in fact, that its product was not timber, but brush, regardless of size. Owing to a question of verbiage, the decision was never reduced to writing. This week United States Attorney Ellinwood held that mesquite wood is worth 75 cents a cord in its natural state. This makes it a tree again, and not a shrub. The new decision was brought about in this wise. A. Grover, a merchant of Arizola, was arrested over a year ago for cutting considerable mesquite cordwood. The grand jury refused to indict him, but recommended a civil suit on the part of the government. The matter was referred to the Secretary of the Interior, who ruled that the United States Attorney should form an esimate of the value of the wood. That official set 75 cents a cord as about a proper figure. Mr. Grover has just paid at that rate and resumed possession of the wood.

Two girls about 12 years old, while gathering pomegranates in the valley below town were approached by a Mexican. They fled and he overtook one of them. The ruffian tried to put his hand over her mouth, but her cries were enough to bring her father to the rescue. The father knocked the fellow down and then allowed him to escape. His impression was that the assailant owned the field. When the little girl was sufficiently recovered to tell the true state of affairs, the Mexican was gone. The parent then took up the pursuit with the intention of killing the Mexican, but that individual rolled under a wire fence and got away.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River-the great Gorge of mid-continent-is confessedly the most stupend the most awful and sublime spectacle to be seen on the Am can continent. It surpasses all the most famous objects nature, of a similar character, to be found in the Old Worldis, in fact, the one and unapproachable thing of its kind; unique fame is as wide as are the borders of the Union, and I spread beyond the seas; it is world-wide.

Thomas Moran's famous painting of the Grand Canyon is great masterpiece of art-the only attempt ever made to p this mighty gorge on a large scale. His celebrated producti is a rare art treasure.

In 1892 Mr. Moran went to the canyon commissioned make studies for a great picture. He spent months thus cupied in that wilderness of Arizona. Having filled his artisoul with a grand conception of a grand subject, and made necessary sketches in black and white, and also in colors, he r turned to his New York studio, went to work on his canvas, finished the famous painting in time for exhibition at the World

Fair in Chicago, where it attracted unprecedented attention. Later the painting was magnificently lithographed by noted New York house upon the order of the passenger depart ment of the Atlantic and Pacific Rallway Company. The repri duction of the original was made under the direct supervision Mr. Moran, and one stipulation in the contract required t each plate and the color produced by it should be satisfactory the painter before the work of lithograph printing was pro ceeded with. It required more than a score of distinct stones and as many separate printings to produce the picture as it is today, and as THE TIMES is prepared to offer it

As a Premium to Subscribers.

Of course, the expense of securing the original and then reproducing it in such a careful, thorough and artistic manner was very great, making the cost of the lithograph far more than the average of such pictures.

The following interesting letter from the lithographers, Messrs. G. H. Buek & Company of New York, more fully explains the skilled and elaborate process by which this noble lithograph was produced:

The Reproduction.

(COPY.)

"NEW YORK, August 21, 1895.

"Dear Sir: * * * The Moran Grand Canyon picture required 21 colors for its proper execution; that does not mean that there are only 21 colors in it, but that we used 21 separate that there are only 21 colors in it, but that we used 21 separate colors in completing the work, and from combinations of one color with another were enabled to get innumerable tints and shades, and to so exactly reproduce Mr. Moran's original as to entirely satisfy him with the work.

"Each different color is of course drawn separately on stone and printed separately on the press, so that each sheet of the work ran through our presses 21 times. The process of lithograpy is simple in itself, but hard to explain.

"A keystone is first made which outlines every separate change of color in the picture to be reproduced. By taking an change of color in the picture to be reproduced. By taking an impression of this on a stone, the artist is then enabled to see just where the different colors are to be worked.

"If the stone he is working on is to be printed in red, for in-stance, he sees on the original certain places this red has been used and by following his keystone can easily find where it is to fall on the reproduction. "The matter of combining colors depends on the artist's judgment to a great extent, and his ability in this line marks a good or bad artist, and his work as good or bad.

"Some artists with few colors can gain much better results than others using twice the number, depending, of course, largely, as we have explained above, on the way in which the colors are handled. "After the various colors have been drawn on the separate stones, the stones are treated with nitric acid and gum arabic. this fixes the work, and renders the stone, where there is no work, somewhat porous and susceptible to moisture, and as the ink the artist works with is of a greasy composition we then have a surface covered with grease. so to speak, where the work has been put, while outside of this work there is simply the plain

The stone is then dampened, and after the damping rollers have passed over it, they are followed by the color rollers.

"The whole operation, then, is, that where the greasy work is on the stone, the moisture of the dampening rollers will not take, while where the dampness is on the stone the color rollers have no effect, only depositing the color on the greasy portion of the stone, where there is no moisture. * * *

"Yours respectfully,
"G. H. BUEK & COMPANY."

At this juncture it was learned that a local rate would be charged from El Paso, making up the difference. This was too much. The sugar was ordered from San Francisco.

Finley at al., came on regularly for hearing and it appearing to the board that due notice of the apportionment had been given as required by law, it was, on mo-tion, apportioned as follows: F. M. Graham, 152 yards from Station O to 1x52 Cook & Balcom, 220 yards from station 1x52 to 3x72; H. Bentley, 160 yards from station 3x72 to 4x72; W. J. Edwards, 440 yards from station 4x72 to 7x00; E. J. Berlingham, 120 yards from station 7x 00 to 7x75; S. Edwards, 400 yards from 7x75 to 10x75; H. A. McKee, 135 yards 7x75 to 10x75; H. A. McKee, 125 yards from 10x75 to 12x05; Stearn Rancho Company, 288 yards from 12x05 to 14x05; J. A. and S. H. Finley, 640 yards, from 14x05 to 19x15; Messrs. Spurgeon & Crookshank, 1600 yards, from 19x15 to 41x75; Messrs. Balcom & Cook, 976 yards from 41x75 to 67x12; F. M. Graham, 358 yards from 67x12 to 75x25; Tavioll, 320 yards from 75x25 to 92x75; Timmons, 160 yards from 92x75 to 98x40. The cost of location is to be apportioned at 10 cents per acre, and the time for hearing yards from 92x75 to 98x40. The cost of location is to be apportioned at 10 cents per acre, and the time for hearing exceptions to the apportionment was set for Monday, October 7, 1895, at 1:30 °clock p.m. The surveyor was instructed to set stakes every one hundred feet and other stakes where necessary. He was also instructed to furnish data to the clerk for serving landowners with notice for the apportion-

The board decided by an order unanimously passed, that it would not be under any obligations to pay for plans and specifications of the new county jail which it may accept unless bids can be obtained and contracts made to build the jail as per plans and specifications for $20,000.

It was then decided that the plans for the new jail should be numbered as presented, after which the different architects present should be heard in reference to their plans.

Plans were submitted from the following parties: S. O. Wood of Los Angeles, I. N. Everett of Santa Ana, I. N. Preston of Los Angeles, C. B. Bradshaw of Orange, Dennis & Farwell of Los Angeles, D. D. Whitson of Santa Ana, Wilcox & Parkerson of Los Angeles, Todd & Walker of Los Angeles, Palmer & Jones of San Bernardino, A. S. Bither of Santa Ana. The different architects present were then heard in reference to their various plans and specifications, after which the board took the different plans under advisement to report upon the same at some future meeting. The assessment of the different railroads in Orange county, as made by the State Board of Equalization, was equalized by the Supervisors, and apportioned to the various road and school districts and municipalities.

The board adjourned to meet tomorrow (Tuesday,) at 10 o'clock, to hear the report of the County Surveyor on the drainage ditch petitioned for by F. J. Hell and others.

came down from the valley armed with a new warrant, upon which Mr. Hill was taken before Justice Barclay of that township. The matter promises some annoyance to Mr. Hill, but his possession of the horses is matter of a Justice Court record, and the effort to block his claim for remuneration for expenses on their account, by invoking the aid of the criminal instead of the civil laws, is not likely to be of lasting benefit to his accusers. The matter will be judiciously investigated later in the week.

For a few days past the air has been heavy with the smoke of brush fires in the mountains. These have burned furiously at times and their reflection has colored the evening sky with crimson. That is the prettier part of the business: the serious side is the damage that is liable to result in the settled canyons. The vegetable growth has been rank during the past season and it is difficult to put bounds to the spread of the fires. Too little caution is used in handling fire along the foothills. As yet no serious damage has been reported, but it will surely follow if the fires continue.

That was the common expression regarding it, though it may not have been literally true. Still, it was not enough, due largely to the desert wind prevailing all Saturday night. The day saw a fine audience in the park for the final afternoon concert of the season, and the fact that it was September proved no bar to surf-bathing. and other vermin that infested the ranch. In the family were two boys, George, aged 15, and Augustus, aged 13. Yesterday afternoon, while the parents were away, the boys started to play robbers, one taking a shotzun and the other the rifle, both, however, taking the precaution to take out the cartridge and silp it into his pocket. For half an hour the fun went on, and when the command came to "Fire!" they snapped their guns at each other, but as neither gun was loaded no one was hur.

After some time they grew tired of the play, and it was proposed that they put the guns away and go to a neighbor's to play with the other children. Both agreed, and started on a run toward the house, the older boy being nearest the building. As he ran, he took the cartridge from his pocket and put it in the rifle, so that the gun might appear to have been undisturbed when his father returned.

Both boys were running as fast as they could, but the older reached the door several feet in advance of his brother, and at the entrance he stopped and in play faged about and leveled the rifle full at his brother's head. Forgetting that he had placed the cartridge in its place, he raised the hammer and fired, the bullet striking Augustus squarely in the forehead, and he dropped instantly, the bullet having gone entirely through his head.

He tried to call his brother back to life, but when the awful truth dawned upon him he ran and called his father Coroner Kurtis was called this morning, and summoning a jury they brought in a verdict of accidental and unintentional death, but severely censured the parents for having loaded firearms where children could use them for playthings. RUINED BY GAMBLING.

Another instance of the effects of the RUINED BY GAMBLING.

Another instance of the effects of the gaming table came to light today when C. W. Sebern, local manager of the gaming table came to light today when C. W. Sebern, local manager of the Sunset Telephone Company, was arrested for embezzlement on the sworn statement of D.J. Mattick, special agent of the company. The prisoner furnished a statement showing his loss at faro and poker in the Third and D-street dives during the past ten days to have been $295. His former record was excellent, and he has been looked upon as an excellent telephone man. After the arrest a knife was taken from him, as it was thought that he would commit suicide if it were left in his possession. Sebern was sent here several months ago to take charge of the company's business here, at Redlands and Riverside. The investigation has been going on for several days, and this morning the arrest was made by Sheriff Holcomb, and the unfortunate man was lodged in jail.

The case was originally brought before Justice Haverly, who was succeeded by Justice Gane. The latter proceeded with the Rogers-Lloyd suit, having had no notification of its dismissal by his predecessor, and judgment was awarded the plaintiffs for $50 and costs. Lloyd claims that he had no notice that the action was pending, and wants judgment set aside.

Harry Rust swore out a search warrant yesterday for the purpose of securing some missing clothing that had been taken from his rooms during an absence of a few days. The apartments he occupied had been leased from a spiritualist medium by the name of Tatum, and it was the latter's rooms that were searched. The clothing was not found, but later Rust met Tatum on the mesa west of town, and he claims that the latter was wearing a coat and vest, and he walked back to town without them.

The Los Angeles men who were going to build a bath-house in this city have withdrawn their offer. There was someh opposition to the site they proposed to take that they concluded the feeling against them would be too great to warrant the investment in an enterprise that would not be popular. Meantime a local stock, company is trying to come into existence, and Santa Barbara may have a modern bath-house yet.

There is another turn in the Desert Queen mine that increases the interest and will make the case still more complicated when it comes into the courts. This time "Diamond George," or as his baptismal name reads George Simon, comes to the front and assigns his claims to H. C. Rolfe, Jr., and tomorrow papers will be filed establishing a hair interest in the Desert Queen. He claims that he and James McHaney are the only owners of the now famous mine; that his money and wages for the past year went into it, and that there are no others who have the least interest in it; that Meyers and all others who pretend to any claim are not in it in the least, and he alone is the rightful owner with James McHanes.

The flesta sports seem to be catchy among the youthful members of society. Yesterday two little tots about three years of age were seen playing at "buil light." The little girl would shake out her flaxen poil and make a rush, head down, at the youthful toreador, who had improvised a gaudy scarf from his mother's wardrobe. It was so lifelike that it was evident the youthful pair had been taken to see the real thing at the amphitheater.

VENTURA, Sept. 22.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Kilson-Alexander scandal is fast coming to a head. Today Josiah Alexander had an interview with Blackstock & Ewing, Kilson's at torneys, and promised an unconditional surrender of the notes and mortgage for $1500 which he and his brother exfor $1500 which he and his brother exacted from Kilson as hush money in the steak-stealing episode. Prior to this tender of absolute surrender the Alexanders had offered to compromise for $500 cash which was indignantly refused, as the total value of the meat and lard which the Alexanders claim was stolen by Kilson was only $7, which amount they could have had by adopting the usual method of collection.

adopting the usual method of collection.

Kilson claims that his reason for signing the notes and mortgages was fear of his life. The story as told by him is that he had been in the habit of helping himself to meat and charging it against his personal account with the Alexanders: that on the day on which he signed the note the Alexanders and a barber named Swain came to him and threatened him with exposure, prosecution, etc., and that finally while Swain held him under cover of a shotgun he signed the papers. The trio then visited Mrs. Kilson and forced her to sign with her husband. Kilson undoubtedly has the sympathy of the community in which he lives, and the confidence of the railroad company as he resumed his position of agent at Saticoy Saturday morning. The mistake which his friends blame him for was in not making the whole matter public at once and prosecuting the Alexanders for blackmail.

WIND HURT THE BEANS.

Rumors of disaster to the bean crop as a result of the éast wind which prevailed on Saturday and Sunday have been rife today. That damage was done to the crop in the Simi, Las Posas, Colonia and Schiappa Pietra districts. This covers about one-fifth of the bean-raising district, and conservative estimates place the loss at one-third of the crop, or, in round figures, at about $25,-600. Full details which will come in later may change these figures, but the damage as given by alarmists at this writing is undoubtedly exaggerated. The estimate given above is furnished as the consensus of opinion of the best-informed producers and dealers in the county. A complete table of losses will be furnished as 800n as it can be compiled.

Ralph Miller, who farms the Boathe ranch eighty acres of bean land about four miles south of Ventura city, lost his entire crop of beans by fire early Sunday morning. The beans, which had been cut and piled near the house, caught fire from a spark from the kitchen chimney, and were entirely destroyed before assistance arrived. The loss falls heavily on Mr. Miller, as it represents his entire season's work and comprises nearly all of his capital.

ing found guilty of murder in the first degree without any recommendation from the jury for mercy.

The fifth and last day of the trial of Cummings, for the murder of T. C. Naramore, began today with much larger attendance. The case of the defense was taken up the first thing this morning. Everybody in the courtroom was on the tiptoe of expectation to hear the story the defendant would tell regarding what took place at Naramore's ranch on the night of August 3, but disappointment fell to the lot of all, for the defendant was not put on the stand. The forenoon was put in with the examination of several witnesses whose testimony was intended to impeach the character of Juna Lopez, the star witness for the State. The argument of counsel consumed the afternoon.

After the argument of counsel for the defendant, Judge Cole spoke for about an hour, arguing the case for the people. The court issued the usual charge to the jury, and at 5:30 o'clock that body went out.

At 7:30 o'clock the jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree without recommendation for mercy. It was announced that time for sentence would be fixed for next Monday.

The defendant sat unmoved throughout, and gave no sign of uneasiness when he heard read the verdict that dooms him to be hanged.

The trial of Caeser Cummings, brother of the man convicted, is to begin Wednesday.

GRAHAM COUNTY.

SOLOMONVILLE, Sept. 21.—(Regular Correspondence.) There is justly some indignation here at the laxity of justice in acting on the murder of J. A. Smith of Duncan, this county, found murdered in his wagon near Separ, N. M. It is claimed the matter has not been laid before the Governor of that Territory. Certainly it would seem as though numerous newspaper accounts were information enough for the Governor. The accounts of the pursuit and escape of the murderer, of his second arrest and subsequent escape in El Paso would seem sufficient information. It is a fact that the peace officers have allowed the murderer to escape through negligence.

Miss Minnie Tevis of Teviston and Thomas Davenport, a popular railroad man, were married at the home or the bride a few days ago.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, Los Angeles, Sept. 23, 1895. KANSAS OPINION. Kansas is erally considered as a hot-bed for generally considered as a not-sed for soft money and other wild financial theories, but there are evidently a few sensible men in that State. In a recent issue of the Bond Record, a monthly journal for investors published in New York, Charles L. Gleed of Kansas has yournal for investors published in New York, Charles L. Gleed of Kansas has an interesting article on the financial question, in which he writes very impartially on the subject of silver, and the extent to which it may be safely used as a money metal. At the close of this article Mr. Gleed makes the following good suggestions for the appointment of a commission to thoroughly investigate the question of currency:

"The whole currency question is one which should be settled according to the recommendations of a competent commission, continuous in its work and organised on the basis of an experience, a scholarship and an integrity that will guarantee to the people a thorough and impartial opinion on all money questions. A supreme court of the currency, composed of men who are financiers or financial scholars and not candidates, would furnish all parties in Congress a good excuse for permitting the country to have a coherent policy and an abiding peace."

the cost of carrying on his business, and runs it after the same fashion as a big wholesale house or a large corporation is conducted. This is one reason why there are so many faffures among the smaller class of merchants. A writer in the Grocery World has the following truthful remarks on this subject:

"The average grocer in purchasing a thing at 4 cents, and selling it at 5 cents, instinctively jumps at the conclusion that he makes 25 per cent, and says to himself, complacently, "that is profit enough to satisfy any one." Now let me illustrate practically: I have a grocer in my mind's eye who figures just in this way. Now let us see how he comes out. This grocer has a certain number of men to solicit orders from families for their weekly supplies. The best of these men bring in sales aggregating $300 per week, all of which is charged on the books of the firm. The solicitor is paid $15 per week, which is exactly 5 per cent. The goods are delivered by wagons at a distance of from one to ren miles from the store, costing at the very lowest estimate $15 per week, and possibly more, but we will say $15 for the sake of argument, which is another 5 per cent.

"Then a collector goes over the route with a horse and buggy. His salary is $10 per week, and the horse and buggy about $7 a week more, but all of this man's time is not taken up with the work of the one salesman. He covers the routes of several sulesmen. But between the losses in collections and the expense in collections from the store.

"Here we have at once a net out to the grocer on the article accepts."

tra choice article a somewhat better price this insignificant sum being left as the result of his life's work, was largely due to his enormous expenses in conducting his business."

Travisions.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS. An interesting gathering took place near Harrisburg, Pa., last month. One of the interesting points brought out during the meeting was the number of commercial travelers in the world. One of the delegates placed the total throughout the world at about one million, of which he thought the United States had 250,000. The report of the United States census shows only 35,600 commercial travelers. The speaker referred to explained this discrepancy as follows:

ferred to explained this discrepancy as follows:

"This, however, is an error which can easily be explained. Many thousand proprietors, manufacturers and jobbers do part of their own traveling, and they are not listed in the census as commercial travelers but as proprietors. Then, again, many are merely enumerated under a salesman's general classification. The fact is that at least 250,000 commercial travelers in all lines are constantly on the road in the United States, and that their real line of duty and extent of numbers is hidden in the census under other classifications. All the commercial nations of the world have long since learned that nothing can compete with the influence of personal solicitation in selling goods, and England, France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Austria, Switzerland and, in fact, every nation that is known in the world of commerce, transact the larger part of their business of a wholesale character through commercial travelers."

PENITENTIARY GOODS. From time to time a loud protest is heard from laboring circles against the custom of having certain goods manufactured in State penitentiaries. From an item which recently appeared in an Eastern exchange, it is evident that some of these goods are made in a very workmanike manner. According to the Shoe and Leather Gasette, an unusual line of trade is followed by half a dosen sidewalk merchants outside the Philadelphia House of Correction. Ivery person discharged from the institution receives, on leaving, a new pair of shoes. Traders lie in wait for discharged prisoners and offer them a pair of old and comfortable shoes and 25 or 50 cents for their new pair. In a great majority of cases the trade is made. The House of Correction shoes are well made and strong, and the traders get a good price for them from workingmen.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

A NEW ILLUMINANT. Several months ago much interest was aroused by a statement published in the press that a new illuminant had been discovered which was superior to gas and far less expensive. The new material is known as acetylene. The inventor, Thomas Leòpold Wilson, is a Canadian. He does not claim to have discovered acetylene gas, or the properties of the carbides. The materials used are common lime and carbon in any form—hard or soft coal, coal dust, charcoal petroleum, tar or peat. These are treated in an electric furnace, and Mr. Wilson is confident that where electricity can be generated with water-power the cost of manufacturing calcium carbide brings it easily into competition with other materials of fuel and light. He says a plant erected near a great water-power like Niagara. Falls may supply the continent at a figure with which coal gas cannot compete. The power at Niagara is ample for almost any conceivable requirement, while it is alongside a mountain of limestone, and coal dust or culm can be had at little more than the cost of hauling from the mines of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Arrangements already are being made to procure electrical energy for this purpose from the falls on both sides of the Niagara. River from the company which controls the power franchises at the falls, so that it is probable the carbide will soon be manufactured on a commercial scale in Canada as well as in the United States.

The Chicago Tribune in a recent number gives the following interesting information in regard to the manner in which it is proposed to utilize this new substance:

"The carbide, containing 40 parts by weight of the element calcium which GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

CREGULAR. ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK. Sept. 23.—Prices today were, with a few exceptions, higher, the upward tendency being almost uninterrupted. The volume of business was fairly large, but was irregularly distributed, with Industrials and Grangers enjoying the large dealings. The conviction that the outward movement of gold is over, at least temporarily, and the satisfactory reports of earnings of most of the railroads, undoubtedly had considerable effect in the market. The lower tendency of the exchange market in the last few days took many people by surprise and occasioned rumors of the negotiation of a sterling loan by way of explanation. Well-informed brokers declare that the favorable tendency of exchange is entirely natural and that there is no present necessity for a sterling loan. The sarly advance culminated after the first hour, and on sales to realize profits Pacific Mail lost 1 per cent, on reports of a hitch in the negotiations for a settlement, with the Panama Railroad Company. They are denied by officials of both companies. About mid-day railles were recorded in a number of instances, among them Pacific Mail, 14, per cent. The advance in prices was very pronounced in the last two hours of business. The strength of Sugar was ascribed to the advances in the foreign and in the domestic grades, which are almost daily reported. The market closed strong at the best figures of the day. Sugar gained 2% per cent, for the day. Trading in bonds was moderate in volume, with a strong tone to the speculation. Among the advances established were Northern Pacific 26s, 1½, and Chicago and N

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Wheat was a trifle weak at the opening, with asies 16% below the close Saturday, but the decline was soon recovered when the visible was posted, and the market showed a good deal of strength and soid %c above the low point early. The comparatively strong tone the market maintained was something of a surprise. Liverpool was weak and lower, domestic markets heavy and the deliveries in the Northwest were again large. But in spite of all this the market held steady. It turned very strong near the close, regaining %c over Saturday. Corn ruled easier, as the froat in the Northwest and West was accepted as a benefit to the standing crop, and the solling exceeded the baying. Compared with the close Saturday, September. October and May corn are 4c lower; December, 46% to lower. Oats were quiet and price changes alight. A weak feeling prevailed at the close. With each recurring year comes the statement that perfection has been arrived at in the workmanship and design of the bicycle, but when the models of the folowing year are seen they are full of changes and improvements. The machines for next season, samples of which are already abroad in the land, are noticeably more rakish and businesslike in their lines, have better finish, and improvements in the hubs, bearings and connections. Of the next season's models already seen there is a great difference over those of the past year. The larger tubing, which will be used by all the makers, gives a solid appearance; the tread is not over five inches in any case, and there is a tendency to have a uniformity of weights, something over twenty pounds being considered the best for all practical purposes.

The other night at the Alhambra during the performance of "A Bowery Girl," a very funny incident occurred in the last act. The Italian villain starts to creep up behind the Bowery girl to slay her; the lights were dim and the orchestra was playing in the tremelo notes; when the villain raised his dagger in the air to strike, a little colored moke of the State-street variety, who was leaning far over the top gallery, with eyes starting from his head, could stand the excitement no longer and yelled at the top of his voice to the girl, "O, Lawd! Miss, tu'n 'roun', quick!"

No truer words were ever uttered by a baseball magnate, past or present, than those of A. G. Spalding, when he said to a New York Sun reporter: "My policy, to let the papers roast the Chicago Club as much as they please, and thereby keep it before the public, is a good one, for if the newspapers didn't mention baseball, where would the National League be? It's a mistake to antagonize reporters because of harsh criticism, for they are all honest in their convictions, and have a right to say and write what they please."

On October 1 Astronomer E. E. Barnard, the discoverer of the fifth satellite of Jupiter, will leave the Lick Observatory and proceed at once to Chicago to take his place with the corps of astronomers connected with the Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva.

AN ABSCONDING CASHIER

WAS A REAL NICE BOY, BUT HE WENT WRONG.

senh E. Davis is the Culprit and He Robbed Insurance Manager Hawley of Nearly Two Hundred Dollars—No Hope of Catching

Joseph E. Davis was, until about ten lays ago, the trusted cashier of C. O. Hawley's insurance agency in the Bryson Block. Mr. Davis was trusted a little too far and he betrayed his trust. Mr. Hawley mourns the departure not only of his cashier, but likewise of $181 in money for which he must account

Davis was a real nice young man. He came from a good family in Ohio, to doubt his honesty. Last Thursday week ago Mr. Hawley was out of town. At 4 o'clock that afternoon, he has since learned, a customer paid Cashier Davis $95. When Mr. Hawley Cashier Davis $95. When Mr. Hawley returned at 5 p.m., and found the office closed, he simply thought his clerk got through with his work early and went home. Next morning when Davis did not show up at the office at his accustomed hour, Mr. Hawley thought possibly he was ill. As he had not put in an appearance by noon, Mr. Hawley put in the rest of the day trying to find out where he lived, but could find no trace of him. Saturday morning no trace of him. Saturday morning Davis was still missing, and Mr. Hawley then began overhauling his accounts. He found a deficit in the cash balance of just $181, and then he knew self.

Mr. Hawley informed the police of the matter and has had detectives looking for the abscender, but all in vain. Davis had undoubtedly left the State before Hawley suspected that anything was wrong. In speaking about the affair yesterday, Mr. Hawley said:

"Davis was a good boy, and I never thought he would go wrong. I think he must have used some of the office money, expecting to make up the deficit before it was discovered by me. I think he got frightened at last, and when that $95 was paid him, he took it and as much more as he could lay hands on and levanted. No, I don't think there is any prospect of catching him now."

Chinese Police Vagged.

Officers McKenzie and Robbins yesterday evening arrested three members of the Chinese private police who are employed to watch the boycotted stores and arrest purchasers of goods at those places. These men are said to be professional blackmailers who prey on the patrons of the Sam. Yup Company. When a Chinaman is caught with articles bought at a boycotted store in his possession, he is fined by a kangaroo court, and the boycotted goods are confiscated. The officers have decided to break up the gang, and will do so by throwing the blackmailers in for vagrancy. Last night's arrests caused consternation in See Yup circles. Over-devoted Wives.

(Harper's Bazar:) The more some (Harper's Bazar:) The more some women do for a man they are interested in, the greater the self-denial they practice in his behalf, the better they seem to like him. And the more they do for him, it may be added, the more he is willing they should do, and the better he likes to have it done. Such women never appear to be the least conscious that the man is selfish; or, if they are conscious of the fact, the rack would not extort it from them.

Of this disposition are not a few wives of today, notwithstanding the current opinion that most native wives dominate their husbands and are altogether too exacting. Who has not seen them, who does not see them still, in the privacy of their own homes, and who is not unpleasantly affected by the spectacle? They are far less common in big cities than in small towns and the country, but they are more or less familiar everywhere, and are likely to be remembered. Their defect, an unusual one, but a defect nevertheless, is that they are too good, and they are over-devoted, and by their over-devotion they harm morally the men they think they are helping. Selfishness is the crowning vice—it has been called the sole wickedness—and to encourage and strengthen it is a vice also, even if done with virtuous intent.

It is painful, as well as mortifying.

to encourage and strengthen it is a vice also, even if done with virtuous intent.

It is painful, as well as mortifying, to witness the action of these over devoted wives; painful on their account, mortifying on account of the men they spoil. They are reasonable, independent, well-balanced, in and of themselves, but not at all so matrimonially. The presence of their husband affects them most unfavorably; it robs them often of every particle of their individualism. With him they have no light of their own; they shine but with a faint reflection. They have opinions enough; they are clever; they appear to much advantage in society at large, but in his they are apt to sink into dullness and insignificance. They express their views, to be sure, but at first in a guarded, cautious way, as if waiting for their oue. When he has given his views, theirs come out fully and freely, always as confirmatory of his, and as though there could be but one side to the question. They carefully watch his face, his manner, his every familiar gesture, so as to get an obvious foreshadowing and be entirely in accord with him and whatever may emanate from that momentous source. She is really his shadow, his echo, though she never suspects it; nor do others, unless they be intimately acquainted with the pair, and close observers likewise.

AMERICAN BICYCLES.

Their Superiority Over Those in Use

A gentleman recently returned from Europe, where he has been touring on a wheel; says the American bicycles taken over by his party surprised those who saw them.

The bicycles belonging to his party each weighed well under twenty-two pounds, the lightest scaling eighteen. In England the lightest racing wheels were found to weigh twenty-two pounds, and some ran up to twenty-five, while the average road wheel weighed not less than thirty pounds. And in many of the English catalogues notice is given purchasers that racing machines are used on the road at the owner's risk. In France manufacture is even behind that of England, the wheels being still heavier and less graceful. When the Frenchmen of the Bois de Bologne saw the American machines they at once noted the shapely American lines, and without delay applied the test wheelmen of every corner of the earth are so used to trying—they lifted the wheel to learn its weight. At once the difference in weight between the French and the American bicycles was admitted, but the opinion prevailed that the American wheel was not intended for use. When its owner mounted and rode away they were given an object lesson which they will not soon forget and which will tend to increase an already good foreign demand for highest class American bicycles. The bicycles belonging to his party in the Arena of Sport.

No student of contemporary athletics can have escaped the fact that En-gland, more than any other of the prominent nations, shows decay in the arena of sport where human muscle is the prime factor. Less than twenty years ago Great Britain led the world easily in athletics; no other nation approached her in feats of speed and strength. Her oarsmen, pedestrians, cyclists, boxers and cricketers amazed the world with their science and stamina. A new power in athletics came to the front about ten years ago in the United States of America, and the advance was so audacious are successful that England seems to never become as dunmbfounded as she was when Lord Howe led his famous veteran army against the redoubts at Bunker Hill a little over a century ago to be repulsed repeatedly by novices the art of war. America was ruly a novice in athletics until, say fifteen years ago, and to foreign-born/athletes we owe the start of athletic enthusiasm which has rolled and is rolling around this great country, destined to become not only the greatest English speaking, but also the foremost nation on earth. English athletes came to the new home, bringing with them the love of outdoor sport, which is second nature to the average English boy, and their example soon became contaglousdin cycling, as in other sports this is true. athletic games America leads the world, and France and the rest of the continent leads England as a rule.

England's decay is not hard to fathom. The cilimatic influences of this country may have something to do with the great performances of athletes this side of the Atlantic—English riders noticed an improvement in their speed after being on our tracks a short time—but the great secret of American supremacy is in the improvement of the American athlete over the English one in the matter of enlightened training and a better mixture of blood in their bodies. The old stock of England has been mixed with that of other countries such as France, Germany, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. The new mixture is superior to the old English stock, although considerable of the latter is used in the make-up of the new athlete. With the mixture of blood, the perfect athlete has resulted—or as near perfection as possible. The champion athlete of the world in future will be an American, and he will be a man in whose veins combined proving irresistible.

A Bad Man Captured.

A man who gave his name as J. W Brown was arrested by Officer John Lennon on Second street east of Los Angeles shortly before 2 o'clock this Angeles shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. He was carrying his shoes in his hand, and a Chinaman said he had tried to enter his house. Brown had chaff and straw on his back as if he had tried to crawl through some narrow place. He attempted to draw a dirk knife, but was prevented. He says he came from Portland, Or. His appearance is that of a disreputable criminal.

J. R. Paine, the railroader who was trailed from Los Angeles to Truckee, Cal.. by Deputy Sheriff Brown, and arrested on a warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon, was arraigned before Justice Morrison yesterday and held in $1500 bail for examination on September 25. That Paine is a desperate man is proved by the fact that he jumped from a car window at Fresno, on the way back to Los Angeles. The deputy had unlocked Paine's manacles and allowed him to go into the closet. The train was running about fifteen miles an hour, but this did not deter the prisoner from Jumping through the window. The officer heard him lesp, rushed to the platform and jumped off also. After a lively chase through Fresno Chinatown. during which the officer fired four shots after the fleeing prisoner, Paine was recaptured.

Attorney Holcomb Arrested for In-terfering with an Officer. An intoxicated individual raised a row in the office of the Natick House yesterday afternoon and abused the clerk till the latter called Officer Cicotte, who was standing outside, but not on duty, to arrest the bibulous person. The officer did as requested, but W. W. Holcomb, a lawyer, tried to prevent him from taking the prisoner. Mr. Cicotte thereupon placed Holcomb under arrest for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Holcomb claims he did not know Cicotte was an officer. The drunken man was Edward Corner, and proved a very hard prisoner to handle. He had to be handcuffed, and then it took four officers to search him and get him safely locked up in the cooler.

Dress Goods.

The richest hues of the rainbow are suggested in many of this season's dress textiles, while the colorings in plainer fabrics are equally rich in their way. All are embraced in our exhibit and marked at our usual attractive prices. (The magnificent display of Dress Goods in our large windows is of itself well worth a journey to see.)

Zibeline in plain Stripes and Plaids: Frisse in plain and fancy: Irideacent and Tricotine Velours; Florentine Sicillenne and Grenada; Poil de Rrebis; Mohair Pontille; Boursoume and Caniche.

At $1 per yard.

Nowhere else such exclusive designs and patterns and nowhere else such a low price put on them. Almost as wonderful as the great assortment is the richness and the beauty of the styles. Surely looms never wrought such yards of loveliness before. And the absurd part is the prices, so low that you'll think we've made mistakes. It's our great stronghold, these high-grades at $1 per yard.
